HURT IN RAIL ACCIDENT

Car Waits at Airport To Rush Serum To Mishap Victim In Crestline Hospital.

BULLETIN

The Civil Air Patrol plane on a mercy mission to Toledo arrived at Municipal airport at 12:45 p. m. today with the serum supply which was then rushed by automobile to Crestline hospital.

Two volunteer Civil Air Patrol fliers from Mansfield's municipal airport battled sleet and snow on a mercy mission to Toledo this morning, returning slightly more than two hours later with a supply of serum needed to save the life of a Mansfield man lying seriously injured in Crestline hospital."

Taking off into overcast skies and a driving snow at 10:30 a m the fliers, Otis Cummins and Erwin D. Jacobson, headed for the Toledo airport, where the life-saving serum was awaiting them at the control tower. Their stop was only a matter of minutes and they quickly were on their way back to Mansfield

The serum was rushed to a waiting automobile which then sped to Crestline. Charles Davis, an Ohio Brass employe, was waiting at the wheel to take the serum to the patient, whom doctors gave a chance for recovery if the serum could be administered in time.

The patient, Kenneth F. Beabout, Fairfax avenue, was injured Thursday night at the Crestline roundhouse in a train accident. He was taken to Crestline hospital for treatment where gangrene developed in one leg. One vial of gas gangrene serum, which is not generally kept on hand since the disease is rather rare.

Council Shies At Increasing Official Pay

Table Measure to Boost Their Own, That of Others, Too.

Mansfield councilmen last night got themselves out of an embarrassing spot in short order by tabling a measure that would have increased the pay of elective city officials, including councilmen.

As submitted to council by City Solicitor Leslie K. Wagner the ordinance provided for annual pay boosts of $500 a year for the mayor, $300 for the auditor, and $100 for the city solicitor, but the amount of increase in council salaries was left blank for the councilmen themselves to fill in.

After considerable hesitancy, Councilman Fred Miller of the Fifth ward, sponsor of the bill, proposed a $100 boost for each member, giving them $350 a year.

George C. Kyle, councilman-at-large, then suggested $25 a meeting for not more than 12 meetings a year, or an increase of $50 a year.

"That all sounds good," said Councilman C. N. Shultz, "but I'm wondering where we are going to get the money."

"Yes, and what are the taxpayers going to think if we raise council salaries now?" asked Councilman Roy Vaughn.

Russell Porch of the First ward then moved that action be limited to the first reading of the measure. Shultz moved that it be tabled and it was, by a unanimous vote.

Council, however appropriated $29,000 for increases in the pay of city employes which went into effect Feb. 1, and granted small increases to Mrs. Marie Menchan, county humane officer, and Mrs. Mary Bishop, secretary to City Solicitor Leslie K. Wagner.

Mrs. Menchan will receive $5 more monthly from the city and Mrs. Bishop's pay was raised $10 a month. The humane officer will now be paid $60 a month by the city. She receives

DARKEN HOMES QUICKLY, PLEA FOR BLACK-OUT

Mansfield, Richland Defense Units Get Stage Set For Tomorrow's Test.

GIVES LIST OF 'DONT'S'

OCD Commander Announces New List of Requirements For City's Residents.

Mansfield and Richland county civilian defense officials were setting the stage today for the area's first test black-out, scheduled for 9:25 p. m. Thursday.

Meanwhile, Ralph H Stone, state defense director, appealed to rural communities in the 19-county area which will black out tomorrow night to turn out their lights as quickly and effectively as the cities, warning that farming communities and villages form a "perfect target" for incendiary phosphorous cards and bombs.

BLACK-OUT TIMETABLE

9:25 P. M.- Steady note of sirens, warning that home lights must go out and traffic must move slowly with lights dimmed.

9:45 P. M Rising and falling note of sirens, indicating all lights out, halt of traffic and pedestrians to seek shelter.

9:50 P. M. Steady note of sirens, with traffic lights to resume operation and traffic to start moving again on caution

9.55 P M.- All clear. Lights go back on.

Common Pleas Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, OCD coordinator, emphasized today that the public must learn the meeaning of the various signals that will be sounded Thursday night since the next test may be unannounced and the time may come when

8th Army Takes 5,000 Captives In New Thrust

Americans Push Ahead In El Guetar, Maknassy Sectors, Only 28 Miles From Axis Retreat Road; New Victory Hailed by Churchill.

(By Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA—The British Eighth army has broken through the Axis hill and wadi defenses north of Gabes, and American troops have mopped up Germans on the Djebel Maizila, north of Maknassy, and advanced east of El Guetar in a coordinated squeeze of Marshal Erwin Rommel, latest reports from the front said today.

Seizing two high hills which dominated the new defenses along the Wadi El Akarit, 20 miles north of Gabes, the British held these strong points through violent German counter-attacks after a break-through behind a heavy artillery barrage and an Allied headquarters communique said they captured 5,000 prisoners, mostly Italians.

(Prime Minister Winston Churchill told the house of commons in London that British armor had reached open country yesterday after taking all the key positions in the Wadi El Akarit line, and that Rommel was retreating northward with Montgomery in "hot pursuit."

(Six thousand Axis prisoners had been captured, he said, after an artillery preparation from 500 guns, a concentration about equal to that which opened the El Alamein battle in Egypt last October.)

The Americans, attacking 40 miles to the west in an effort to link hands with Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's warriors and also to threaten Rommel's rear, launched heavy new attacks.

They tried desperately to dislodge entrenched German forces from their formidable artillery positions and strong lines of machine gun nests planted in the rocks of Djebel Kreroun nine miles east of El Guetar.

Latest reports said they had advanced after previous failures.

About 40 miles to the north, the Americans attacked in a new sector, nine miles north of Maknassy, and first were reported to have driven to the mouth of Maizila Pass and then to have mopped up the Germans remaining on the dominant heights.

(At last reports, the Americans in that sector were only 28 miles from Rommel's coastal road.)

The furious Allied air attack continued apace with the intense land activities. Mitchell medium

WILL DISCUSS ITALY DEFENSE

Nazi, Italian Commands Fear Invasion, Plan To Meet at Brenner Pass.

(By United Press)

LONDON - The German and Italian high commands will meet soon in the Brenner pass to discuss the defense of Italy against an Allied invasion, which the Axis believes may follow close on an Anglo-American victory in Tunisia, reports reaching Allied governments in London said today.

Rumors circulated in Switzerland that Adolf Hitler and Premier Benito Mussolini plan to attend the meeting, but competent Allied quarters believed this unlikely.

However, Germany is expected to send Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop momentarily to Rome to confer with Mussolini on Italy's appeal for seven additional army divisions and two more air corps to counter any landing attempt.

Informed sources said the unprecedented Allied aerial offensive from North Africa against Sicily, Sardinia and Southern Italy have intensified the fears of both Germany and Italy that the Anglo-American high command is planning to strike at Europe through Italy.

Axis reports indicated that the Italians were rushing the construction of coastal defenses. Fascist leaders in Rome announced that many fortifications already have

END WAR WORK TRAINING

COLUMBUS (AP) The state board of vocational education reported today 296,888 persons enrolled in training courses for war production workers between the July 1, 1940, opening and last Feb. 28, and that 281,174 completed their studies.

CLAIM BIG TOLL

Nazis Say Their Subs Bag 15 Allied Vessels.

(By Associated Press)

The Germans claimed today that their submarines in the Atlantic and Mediterranean had sunk 14 fully-loaded Allied merchant ships totaling 102,000 tons, and also had sent a destroyer to the bottom.

The claim was made in a special communique by D. N B., broadcast by the Berlin radio and recorded by the Associated Press.

In the course of heavy attacks on Allied supply lines, five other ships were torpedoed, but their sinking could not be observed due to strong defense measures, the German announcement said.

The German claims were unconfirmed by Allied sources.

DADS TO BE IN SPECIAL 3-A

Hardship Cases Also Included In Classification, Draft Officials Indicate.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON Plans to wipe out the dependency classes of draft registrants include establishment of a special 3-A class to be made up of pre-Pearl Harbor fathers and men whose departure from the home would make their family a public charge, it was learned today.

Reclassification of all other men in 3-A, 3-B and 3-C will be ordered about April 15, according to authoritative sources, in order to place them in the right classes as decided on the basis of occupation.

The men assigned to the special 3-A class—hardships cases and fathers whose child or children were born before Sept. 14, 1942— will remain there until the present prohibition against the drafting of fathers is lifted. Then they, too, will be reclassified on the basis of occupation.

FACE ARREST

Motorists Must Have Stickers By Midnight Tonight.

Motorists driving without the new windshield sticker licenses will be subject to arrest after midnight tonight, Harold C Culbert, assistant state registrar of motor vehicles, warned today.

Col. Lynn Black of the state highway patrol said his men will be ordered to arrest all motorists who do not display the stickers after tonight.

As the deadline approached, sales at the Richland County Auto club were practically even with 1942 sales levels, Jack Berger, deputy registrar, announced.

VOTE TODAY ON BIGGEST BUDGET

Ohio Legislature Expected To Approve $366,000,000 For State Operations.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS The house of representatives met today to vote approval of the largest appropriation bill in the state's history -a $336,000,000 wartime measure to pay for operation of the Ohio government until Jan. 1, 1945.

A caucus of majority Republican representatives was scheduled before debate on the bill. Recommended by the house finance committee after many weeks of almost daily hearings upon Governor Bricker's executive budget, the 300-page bill represented a reduction of approximately $3,000,000 from the governor's recommendations.

There were pre-session indications a 50-per cent committee cut in the state subsidy to local defense councils from $1,000,000 to $500,000 a year might be the principal point of contention in debate.

There were reports also the caucus might determine whether and when Bricker's proposed repeal of the sales tax on restaurant foods, and prescription medicines should reach the house floor for

HIT CRUISER

British Report Explosion After Messina Attack.

LONDON (UP) - The admiralty announced today that a British submarine had torpedoed an Italian cruiser of the Regolo class in the Straits of Messina, a heavy explosion followed the attack, but full results could not be observed.

The Regolo class comprises 12 new cruisers of 3,362 tons which mount eight 5.3-inch guns and carry only light armor.

An admiralty communique said other submarines operating against Axis supply lines in the Mediterranean had torpedoed two tankers and a medium sized supply ship, and at least one tanker was believed to have been sunk.

REPORTS NEW NAZI ARRESTS

Swedish Paper Says Luther, Thyssen Held In Germany.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden—(AP)—The Swedish newspaper Aftonbladet reported today, without confirmation, that Dr. Hans Luther, former German chancellor and former ambassador to Washington, had been placed under "protective arrest" in Germany by Nazi officials.

The newspaper was unable to give the reason for his reported arrest.

Aftonbladet also said Fritz Thyssen, German industrialist and once an ardent supporter of Hitler, had been placed under custody in a Berlin hotel.

DISBARS LEMERT

Court Convicts Former Appeals Judge of Misconduct.

Charles C. Lemert, former judge of the fifth district court of appeals, which includes Richland county, has been disbarred for six months, Associated Press dispatches from Zanesville reported today.

Common Pleas Judge Fred H. Wolfe of Fulton county issued the disbarment order after convicting Lemert yesterday of "misconduct in office and unprofessional conduct" in administering the estate of Anna E. Denison.

A committee of the Muskingum Bar association filed the charges. Lemert had termed the charges a "political trick." He was defeated for re-election last fall by Common Pleas Judge Robert Putnam of Millersburg.

Bucyrus to Ring Curfew Bell at 10 for Youngsters

BUCYRUS - The curfew for boys and girls under 16 is coming back to Bucyrus.

In a move to reduce juvenile delinquency, city council Tuesday night passed an ordinance making it unlawful for persons under 16 to be on the streets after 10 p. m unless they are accompanied by a parent or guardian.

At the same time council set up legislation regulating public dance halls, roller skating rinks, and other places of entertainment frequented by young people.

Sponsors of dances must pay a $2 license fee for one entertainment while proprietors of dancing places must pay $15 a year for permits.

The new legislation makes an amusement permit holder liable to fine or imprisonment for permitting the use of intoxicants or the presence of intoxicated persons after 10 p m. in places frequented by minors

The penalty for violations may be a fine of from $5 to $500 and six months' imprisonment.

THOUSANDS QUIT

Prepare for Liquor Rush as Rations Waits Bricker's Pen

As liquor rationing moved a step nearer today, Mansfield's two state liquor stores prepared for a buying rush—a rush even greater than there has been on the scant available liquor.

News of the rationing came too late yesterday to occasion any unusual rush in buying, Frank Poling and William Thull, local store managers, opined, "but the news will undoubtedly have its effect today," they predicted.

They indicated their belief that long lines which have formed daily at liquor stores will be even longer today.

While the rationing bill was awaiting the signature of Gov. John W. Bricker, Donald A. Fisher, state liquor director, branded "out-of-state" liquor buyers as "bootleggers, even if their purchases were for their own consumption.

The rationing bill, which probably will be signed into law by Governor Bricker Thursday, calls for the start of rationing May 24, but does not name the amount which Fisher declared will remain a secret until the initial registration.

Ohioans probably will get less than a quart a month, they figured, with the number of drinkers among Ohio's 7,000,000 persons determining the share each will have in the 1,200,000 quart monthly

Japs Inflict New Setback on British Forces In Burma Area

(By Associated Press)

A New British setback on the Burma front was disclosed today as Field Marshal Sir Archibald P. Wavell's legions fell back on the Mayu peninsula, along the Bay of Bengal, to counter a threat by out-flanking Japanese troops from the north.

British forces thrusting down the peninsula from India had failed in four attempts to crack the powerful Japanese defenses guarding the big coastal base at Akyab.

"Infiltrating across the Mayu river south of Kwazoc, the enemy succeeded over the week-end in mounting a direct threat to our communications in the narrow strip between the hills and the sea north of Donbaik," a British communique said.

"To meet this outflanking movement, necessary readjustments have been made in our positions on the Mayu peninsula."

The extent of the withdrawal was not revealed, but dispatches from the front last week said Gen. Wavell was preparing to pull in his vanguards and dig in at more favorable positions to await the arrival of the monsoon rains.

The British command said other British forces were holding unchanged positions in the hills north of the Mayu peninsula, where "severe casualties" were inflicted on the Japanese in fighting still in progress.

In the Southwest Pacific, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters announced Allied fliers bombed Japanese-occupied villages in the Aroe islands, the enemy's closest foothold to Australia, and set big fires in the Japanese base at Salamaua, New Guinea.

Will Marriage Mean Escape From Parents?

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Marriage at the first opportunity, even to a man she did not love, and without consideration of the consequences, used to be grasped by many girls, to escape from homes in which they were unhappy. In recent years, getting a job in another city has become a more common choice. But loveless marriage is still "the way out" to which many girls resort when life with the family becomes intolerable.

A letter before me says:

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"Ever since I can remember I have had the feeling that I am not wanted by my mother and father. We have a nice home, a good car, (which, of course, we can't use much now on account of the gas and tire rationing) and I've always had the best clothes. But I don't want that alone—I want love.

"My parents are devoted to each other, and if I happen to come into the room where they are talking I feel like an intruder. I've tried everything possible to make my parents love me, but it's no use. I'm 18 and so lonesome and unhappy.

"I've recently met a young man whose wife has been dead two years, and he has a little girl of five. I have gone out with him many times, and he wants me to marry him and take care of his little girl while he joins the army. He knows how I feel about my home and parents, and he has noticed it too. He says he will try to make up what I've missed in the way of affection, as long as we can be together. He is 35 years old.

"But I'm afraid I do not love him, although I do respect him, and am very fond of the little girl, and know we could get along swell together. My parents will not advise me, but tell me that I must make my own decision. I thought perhaps you as a stranger and disinterested party would give me a little advice. Hester."

If you were older, quite a bit older, my dear, I might advise you to marry the widower with the little girl. But at 18, with all the world before you, and the chance of an enchanting love match awaiting you, I could not give you that advice.

You know what it is to be loveless in your own home; how much worse it would be, after an experience of this kind, to go into a new home where you brought no love with your marriage. It would be piling unhappiness on unhappiness, tragedy on tragedy. And it seems to me it would be unfair to the man, too. He thinks he could teach you to love him, but so many, many people have hoped to teach love and failed.

Since you are among the fortunate who do not have to worry over money or a job, why not enroll your service in war work? Nurses' aides are wanted, to assist the trained nurses in the hospitals. Hospitals are ready to give you training so that you may help with chores such as carrying trays, taking temperatures, making beds, and waiting on patients who are unable to do for themselves. You might take a defense job, information about which you will get from the U. S. Employment Service office nearest you. (Your telephone directory will give the address.)

You will be enabled to get out of uncongenial home surroundings for a worthy reason, and I have a feeling you will find the love you have been looking for.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

Katherine sat up abruptly, rubbed her eyes, stretched and stepped out of bed then threw up her hand in a snappy salute.

"Ready for duty!" she said. "That is, I shall be when I've had a shower. You've had yours, I see."

"Yes. What do you want for breakfast? I'll telephone our order before I dress."

A few minutes later we were discussing our breakfast, and the task before us. I told her of what had been planned, the telephone sounded and my father spoke.

"Margaret! Don't be alarmed, dear! I really am all right, but I've had a slight attack, and Dr. Twitchell is on his way over. There really isn't the least need of your coming—"

"Father!" I interrupted him, hoping I had made my voice frantic enough to be convincing to the operator. "Go back to bed immediately! I will be right over."

"I'll just slip into my uniform," said Katharine, who already was taking off her gown. "Then I'll follow you right over, and stay there with Dr. Twitchell until I get the call from you at Mary's apartment. Better arrange to have Adams, or somebody, ready to take care of your father while Dr. Twitchell and I are busy with Mary."

"I'll do that," I said, and went at once to my father's apartment. When Adams opened the door, I realized that my father already had arranged for all contingencies.

"Your father said you were to come directly to him, Mrs. Graham," Adams said, with no hint that he was acting a role, and in the bedroom I found my father in his dressing gown lying on the bed.

"Katharine will be here in a few minutes," I told him.

"Good!" he said, as the corners of his mouth quirked into a smile; "I really think I shall go out to Hollywood after this performance. Is everything in train?"

"We are all ready," I said. "Katharine has on her uniform, so no time will be lost."

"And that must be Dr. Twitchell," he said as the knocker sounded. Adams ushered in the physician and I went to the telephone.

"We might as well make this convincing to the operator," I said, then called my own room.

"The doctor is here," I said fussily, when she reported no answer, "and Mrs. Bickett, who is a nurse, said she would be right over."

"She probably is on her way, Mrs. Graham," the operator said soothingly. Thus I had established Katherine's status as a nurse and prepared the operator for the telephone call I would make a few minutes later from Mary's apartment.

I had hardly hung up the receiver before Katherine arrived. We sat trying to chat idly, until time for me to start for Mary's apartment, then I turned at the door, speaking loudly for the benefit of the chambermaid in the hall.

"You're sure it is all right for me to go?" I asked anxiously. "My appointment is very important."

"Absolutely sure," Dr. Twichell assured me, also speaking loudly.

"This is only a slight attack, and he is getting better by the minute."

"I'm so glad" I said fervently, and hurried away.

At Mary's apartment I met Noel at the door. He was wheeling the breakfast table into the hall, so it could be picked up there without disturbing them.

Noel Plays His Part.

"We're taking all precautions, you see," Mary said smiling. Noel smiled too with patent effort. But at least he was playing up, I noted with satisfaction.

"If you'll just lie down on that couch, Mary," I said, "I'll telephone Dr. Twichell. He's at Father's apartment with Aunt Katharine and Adams, caring for your Grandpa Spencer, who is supposedly having a heart attack."

Mary giggled as she established herself on the couch.

"I'd love to see him acting all over the lot," she commented as I took down the receiver and was connected with my father's apartment. Adams answered the telephone, and again I tried to make my voice convincingly frantic.

"Will you ask Dr. Twichell if he can come directly to Mr. Noel Vertizen's apartment?" I urged. "There has been an accident."

Problems With Child In Wartime

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

On various occasions, in this column, I have discussed the child of the working mother, especially the young child who leaves for school after the mother goes to work and comes home from school before she returns.

Let us consider today the baby and tot whose mother leaves him with a relative or other caretaker. Usually the problem then is not so much one of physical care and protection as of his discipline. Sometimes, however, the grandmother or other mother-substitute does better at restraining the young child, winning his cooperation and holding him to routines than the mother.

This is apt to happen where the caretaker is given complete responsibility for controlling the youngster and is expected to discipline him as she sees fit; and where the child when the mother is home is held to the caretaker's program.

Official Tattler.

But if the mother-substitute is expected merely to report to the mother her youngster's misbehavior during the day, made a kind of official tattler, the problem can soon grow almost hopeless. Very unsatisfactory it is, too, when the relative in the home and the mother disagree in the child's presence about his upbringing, or when there is the slightest suggestion to the child that he need not obey any one but his mother.

The child who has learned early from his mother the meaning of NO and also the habit of cooperating with her happily in routines if fortunate. Fortunate if the tot from two to five will stay in a chair when assigned to sit there for punishment.

The working mother can do best with her tot from 2 to 5 if she finds increasing ways while home to win his cooperation and help him find enjoyment from quiet, creative play and listening to her read to him and answer his questions. Most of all, this young child needs the evening companionship of a mother who can relax, speak softly, and provide him with patient understanding and generous affection.

May Pamper Child.

Then there is the mother who does not work, but who with her baby or young child must live for the duration with relatives or others in crowded quarters, or must travel about to be with the father. Often she will pamper this child in order to keep him from disturbing next-door neighbors or other adults in the house. Also many other adults may conspire to boss this little child. Facing all these difficulties, the young mother should not be too much discouraged when her child does not measure up in behavior to her expectation.

For the working mother, I have written a special bulletin, to be had without cost, by writing me in care of this paper enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

Solving Parent Problems.

Q. How would you teach a child not to use ugly names?

A. I would tell him just once not to say them. Thereafter he would get an instant spanking for each offense. The child who early develops the habit of calling others ugly names may resort to it later when not getting on well with other children, and with dire results. Anyway, calling a person ugly names is an anti-social practice that should be dealt with early and effectively.

"The Authority on Authorities"

ALL THE MORE REASON

Solid high-card winners in the side suits, when combined with a very sketchy trump suit, cause the less skillful declarer to avoid leading trumps. To the more able cardsman, that situation furnishes all the more reason for getting the trumps out as soon as possible, for fear that the opponents may ruff some of his high cards. If he takes his unavoidable trump losers as early as possible, he reduces the hand quickly to what amounts to a No Trumper, with no chance to have his good honors of other suits trumped.

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	1 ♥	Pass	Pass
2 ♦	2 ♥	Pass	Pass
2 ♠	Pass	3 ♦	Pass

Only through the grace of luck did South reach that game contract. Better bidding by him might have been a double when the 1-Heart came around, and perhaps a repeated double if West then bid 2-Hearts. But he reached his game anyway, and should have made it, but didn't.

After ruffing the second heart lead, he was afraid to go after such a weak trump suit, with three honors against him, so tried three rounds of diamonds. West ruffed the third and fired back a third heart for South to trump. Three very silly leads of clubs followed. East ruffing the third one and making South ruff another heart. The club Q was ruffed by the 8 and over-ruffed by the 10, then the diamond 2 ruffed by the A, setting the contract two.

South's job was really simple. If, as soon as he ruffed the second heart, he had gone to dummy with the club J and led a trump to finesse the 9—his best chance—later had laid down the spade K and then run his side suits until East ruffed with his Q, he would have lost only two tricks in trumps and one in hearts.

If South bids hearts and spades, North diamonds, and South winds up in 4-Hearts, how should he play for his contract after West leads the spade J?

Mme. Qui Vive Says Eyes Are Best Feature

The eyes have it! They are the most interesting feature, and that goes without argument. Beautiful eyes stamp their images upon the memory. Though shape and color have much to do with their charm and loveliness, expression is the dominating factor.

Ask yourself this question: "Just how do my eyes behave?" Do they cast horrid looks or are they tender and beguiling? Are they calculating? Do you, in forgetful moments, let them get hard and steely. Musn't. Your eyes are always sending messages that anyone can read. Keep 'em smiling. Fill them with the starlight of a sunny disposition. You'll make the beauty grade, even if some other feature does not qualify.

When conditions are favorable, the eyes take fairly good care of themselves. Whenever the lid passes over the eyeball it distributes oil over the corneal surface, keeping it from drying out. This oil lubricates the lids, supplies a tonic to the eyelashes.

When danger threatens the lids close automatically. If a foreign particle lodges in the eye, the tear duct endeavors to wash away the invader with salty fluid. So, you see, the eyes are fairly self efficient, having a perfectly planned oiling and washing system.

The delicate optic organism is entitled to the best of care, which it does not always receive. Many times they are abused and neglected. Because they work every waking moment, they should have periods of rest. If you type or sew, do any close work, pause now and then, walk to a window, change the distance of vision.

Never read in a moving train, which is a strain because it requires frequent adjustment of vision. Of course, everybody does. But that's no excuse for this bad habit.

Eyes are weakened by glaring lights; see that your bulbs are shaded, especially in the kitchen where cabinets are shining white. If you turn on a bright light during the night, keep the eyes closed for a moment.

Tired eyes should be bathed with hot water, then with cold. If they have been subjected to dust, feel irritated, apply a few drops of boric acid solution; your druggist will supply you with it. If inflammation is pronounced, travel to an eye specialist.

Dried fruits make excellent sauces for meats. Soak fruit in water for about 1 hour, and cook in same water slowly. Add a pinch of salt and sugar, when sweetening is needed. For a fresh fruit flavor, squeeze lemon, orange or grapefruit juice over dried fruit just before serving.

Prunes Are Featured In Today's Menu

By BETSY NEWMAN

Gelatin is a help in our dessert problems, and also in our salads. The following recipe for jellied prunes may be used as dessert or salad. Prunes are, as you know, an excellent food for everyone, from baby to granddad.

Today's Menu.

Aztec Baked Beans
Scalloped Apples
Cabbage Salad Mashed Squash
Jellied Prunes Tea

Aztec Baked Beans.

3 c. cooked red beans
1½ c. tomatoes
1 minced pimiento
¼ c. deviled ham
¼ c. onion, minced
¾ tsp. mustard
¾ tsp. curry powder
1½ tbsps. molasses
1½ tbsps. sugar
¼ tsp. salt
6 strips Canadian bacon
Dash of pepper

Mix all ingredients except bacon and turn into greased casserole; arrange meat on top and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 30 minutes, or until meat is crisp. Serves 6.

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, April 8

JUDGING by the lunar transits this should be a most exciting day. All manner of innovations, even sensational new and ingenious attempts to forge ahead, should attract the hearty support of superiors or possibly public or community approval.

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy the pleasant opportunity of putting over, in a grand manner, some of their novel, ingenious, or startling ideas and propositions, possibly to the point of the spectacular or dramatic. New and original projects, inaugurated without any of the ordinary or conventional techniques, may culminate in good fortune.

A child born on this day may be blessed with much orginality, creative ability and intuition, with skill and ingenuity enough to put over startling ideas.

LIVESTOCK MAN PREDICTS MEAT RATIONING WILL NOT BE SO BAD

DENVER, Col. — (NS) — A. E. deRicqles, veteran Colorado livestock expert recently belittled threats of a serious meat shortage in America, but urged cattlemen and ranchers to increase production of livestock this year.

DeRicqles who retired from business after 50 years of active participation in the livestock business and its branches, deplored criticism of the forecast one and three-fourth pounds of meat per person a week.

"There are millions of people who would make a poor showing in eating that much meat," deRicqles asserted.

Clarifying the country's livestock supply situation deRicqles declared:

"Figures generally mean facts and facts are what we want about the food situation. In 1942 there were 17,979,227 cattle, according to government tabulations, that were received at 68 markets, an increase of 18.1 per cent over 1941. Of these receipts 9,805,606 head were slaughtered, or 3,947,897 increase over 1941.

"Out of the grand total, there were 4,030,193 cattle shipped out to the country as stockers and feeders. As compared with a five year average, the 1942 movement out was 29 per cent greater than the average of those five years. So this 29 per cent is part of our backlog or reserve supply and even with the tremendous demand for beef this would not indicate that America is in a critical position for beef products as yet. Everyone seems to think there is a serious shortage of cattle. Personally, I do not agree.

"The hog situation is less complicated. For 1942 there were 34,415,107 hogs received at the 68 markets under consideration. This total carries an increase of 6,283,909 hogs or 22.3 per cent over the five-year average. With the tremendous corn crop available for feeding, I expected to see from one million to two million more hogs in the 1942 receipts than arrived. They may appear in 1943."

DeRicqles closed his review of the nation's meat situation with the flat statement: "There is no cause to get panicky about our meat supply for 1943 and the less we talk shortage the better it will be for all concerned. But let us make a special effort to take good care of our surplus gram."

Brenda — Will You Step Out With Me Tonight?

I know I've been an awful grouch not taking you any place lately. But after standing all day at my new job, my feet darn near killed me with callouses and burning. Now I've reformed — or rather my feet have — thanks to the Ice-Mint you advised. Never tried anything that seemed to draw the pain and fire right out so fast — and the way it helps soften callouses is nobody's business! Been able to get some extra overtime money — so what do you say, let's go dancing tonight. You can step on my Ice-Mint feet all you want.

"Hitch your nickel to a CHUCKLES Bar. The delicious, nutritious, CANDY STAR. That surpasses all the rest BY FAR."

Congratulations!

WORRIED HIM

CHEYENNE, Wyo. — (AP) — Lieut. Rolland H. Pederson had just completed a 10-minute lecture at Fort Francis E. Warren, on tactical conditions under enemy fire.

"Remember," said he, "not to worry too much about fire for only one shell has your name on it." "But, sir," said a voice at the end of the hall, "I don't like all those shells that are addressed to 'whom it may concern'."

IN THE CAPITAL-- By Raymond Clapper

WASHINGTON—This is written before the senate vote on overriding President Roosevelt's veto of the indefensible Bankhead bill to shove up farm prices.

This measure is indefensible on any grounds of national interest. It is purely political.

By voting for the bill in the first place, most members of the two houses satisfied the political pressure that was brought on them. President Roosevelt has had to veto the measure to protect the national interest. We must depend on the house or the senate to uphold the president by refusing to override his veto.

Clapper

This situation again demonstrates the wisdom of the constitutional fathers in giving the president a restraining hand in legislation equal, through the veto power, to two-thirds of the congress. Individual members of congress felt unable to resist the political pressure for the Bankhead bill.

Only two members of the senate were bold enough to put their names down against the Bankhead bill—Gerry and Green of Rhode Island. But many of those who voted for it, like Senator Barkley, the administration leader in the senate, were ready to reverse themselves and support the presidential veto once they had made their record.

In the house, fortunately there was no roll-call. The bill would have passed on a roll-call but the Democratic leader, Rep. McCormack, wisely did not ask for a record vote. Every member is free to come to the president's support without a previous record vote to consider at all. The proportionately larger city vote in the house is almost certain to save the presidential veto if the decision has to be made in the house.

Individual members find it difficult to stand alone against the strong pressure of a group. But the president, representing the whole country, obliged to consider the interests of the nation as a whole, and drawing support from every part of the nation, is less vulnerable to specific pressure groups or special interests. In any case the tradition of the office exerts a strong pull on every president to rise above immediate political considerations and support the long-range interests of the nation.

So it is with President Roosevelt now in fighting the danger of inflation. The real danger of inflation will come after the war as it did before. But the defenses against inflation established now will make the nation better able to resist the strain that is to come.

Mr. Roosevelt has taken his stand for preservation of the wage ceiling imposed by the Little Steel formula. He has insisted that it be observed by John L. Lewis and his United Mine Workers. But as the president said in his veto message, if the Bankhead bill is passed over the veto it may be impossible to stand by this wage-restriction formula. If congress by legislation forces up farm prices, then it will be impossible to hold the line on wages.

The Bankhead bill doesn't give the farmer the kind of help he needs. The farmer gets a parity price, or better, and this is a bill to give him some more by not figuring into parity the government benefit checks the farmer receives.

What the farmer needs is help, farm machinery, and fertilizer. Higher prices will not produce any of those things. Higher prices will only shove up wages, and in turn the prices of what the farmer must buy. So the bill is a phony.

The president says everybody must cut his living standards. He is not taking it out on the farmers. No president in modern times has done more for the farmers than Mr. Roosevelt. Have the farmers forgotten the years when the Republicans were complaining that they couldn't beat Roosevelt because of the gentle rain of benefit checks from Washington?

LA GUARDIA GETS 'MEASURED' FOR ARMY UNIFORM

But Air's a Bit Frosty on Capitol Hill and He May Stay In Mufti.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia of New York was measured today by the men who have a say in granting army commissions to determine if he is the right man for a uniform and if a uniform can be made to fit him.

Primary considerations involved were these: The policy against granting commissions to civilians, the mayor's unique qualifications for a post as a liaison officer with the Italian peoples; the new pronouncement preventing military personnel from playing politics; the fact that La Guardia served in World War I as a major, and that he already has a number of key jobs.

On Capitol Hill, sentiment appeared frosty to suggestions that La Guardia be made a brigadier general. Some senators bristled to his nomination for any military position. Others believed that he should be confirmed if President Roosevelt offers his name.

If New York's mayor were to go into service, he would have to doff politics with his civilian clothes. An amendment to army regulations prevents a soldier on active duty from becoming a candidate for or accepting election to any public office not held by him when his duty began.

The senatorial arched eyebrows on the military commission for La Guardia led many persons close to the president to feel there would be less criticism if the appointment were a civilian one, one responsible directly to the president.

Appointment of all officers above the rank of major, except for colonels named temporarily, must be submitted to the senate for confirmation.

During a visit here yesterday, he quipped off reporters by saying:

"I've got a uniform of my own up in New York—a street cleaner's uniform. That's my own little army."

SEEK TO MAKE VETOED BILL CLUB-IN-CLOSET

Senators Leave Farm Measure In Committee as Check on Miners' Demands.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Farm bloc senators who whooped the Bankhead bill to the White House by a 78-to-2 vote hope to salvage scraps of the vetoed legislation today as a weapon against any relaxation of labor's wage ceilings.

The weapon will be first used, if at all, against John L. Lewis' effort to obtain a $2-a-day increase for his United Mine Workers. The Bankhead bill would increase farm income by eliminating from parity price computations the benefit payments now received by farmers.

President Roosevelt vetoed the bill last week, asserting that it would loose a "tornado of inflation." The administration is opposing Lewis' wage demands and other efforts to break through Little Steel wage formula ceilings on identical grounds.

Mr. Roosevelt's firm opposition has blocked enactment of the Bankhead bill at this time but its sponsors have decided to avoid a showdown which once and for all would kill the legislation. It will remain dormant on Capitol Hill, to be revived only if labor makes a major break through wage ceilings.

Technically, the bill will not be dead. Neither can the veto issue be raised in the house so long as it remains in committee custody. It will be a club-in-the-closet of the Senate agriculture committee.

Any administration surrender to Lewis, such as that by which he obtained a closed shop in the so-called captive coal mines in the 1941 strike, would be likely to swing votes to the Bankhead bill, and fast.

But potential alignment of the farm bloc with the administration against Lewis probably does not greatly disturb the United Mine Workers president. It is not unlikely that someone will propose and that Lewis will accept a wage compromise which would provide that miners be paid from the time they enter the mine until they leave it instead of from the time they reach the face of the coal vein until they leave it.

CONSIDER NEW SOLDIER DRESS

OMC Experts Study Garment For All Climates.

SEATTLE—(AP)—That well-tailored exterior of United States soldiers may have to give way to a new type of all-climate garment, designed for utility rather than for dress review, Maj. Gen. Edmund B. Gregory, the army's quartermaster general, disclosed in an interview.

"What we have in mind," he explained, "is a cotton fabric that is both wind-resistant and water-repellant to be used as the outer garment for all soldiers in all latitudes.

"The number and character of layers that the soldier will wear underneath this coverall will be determined by local weather conditions."

Father Finds Body of Little Girl Buried In Shallow Cellar Grave.

(By United Press)

PITTSBURGH — The almost nude body of blond, curly-headed Theresa Williams, four, was found by her father today in a shallow grave, dug by the alleged murderer in the cellar of his home.

Shortly after the discovery, Earl Perry, 17, was arrested and confessed, police said, that he strangled and attacked the little girl, after luring her to his home with a candy bar and a penny.

Young Perry, who is the son of Nicholas Perry, owner of a valet shop, was questioned by police who discovered small scratches on his face, indicating how the little girl fought for her life.

"I bought two packages of cigarets and some candy bars and went home. I washed and when I saw Theresa I offered her a candy bar.

"Didn't you give her a penny?" police asked.

"No that was before. She came into the house and I took her down the cellar. I fell down the cellar stairs.

"After I strangled her, I dug the hole, got her into it, covered her with dirt and then tramped down the ground with my feet."

When young Perry admitted his guilt, the murdered girl's father began a search of the cellar and discovered his daughter's mutilated body, a hand protruding from the grave.

Theresa disappeared late yesterday afternoon as she and two of her little friends were playing games near her home.

WORKMEN SCALDED

PORTSMOUTH (AP) — Oscar Earle Harn, 45, of New Boston, was scalded severely by steam and six others suffered minor burns yesterday at the Wheeling Steel corporation plant when metal leaked out of a blast furnace and dropped into a pool of water.

What's a cartoon without a caption? That's what News-Journal readers have been wondering since scrutinizing the comic drawing of Scott Brown, 143 Rae avenue, which is on exhibition now in New York, and a photograph of which appeared in Monday's News-Journal. Under the picture of the exasperated woman driver giving her ration book to the gasoline station attendant, should have been her comment: "And pretty soon I suppose we'll have to burn petrol like they do in England."

ATTACK BILL TO CONTROL UNIONS

Labor Leaders Oppose Plan For Registering, Majority Vote on Strikes.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS The house judiciary committee was told last night that, under a bill to regulate labor unions, an employer could discharge every labor leader in his employ.

The statement came from Thomas Downs, attorney for the Ohio CIO, as the committee conducted its second hearing on the French bill.

Testimony that the proposed legislation was designed to destroy labor unions also came from Phil Hannah, secretary treasurer of the Ohio Federation of Labor, and Ted F. Silvey, who holds a similar office in the Ohio CIO.

The bill, introduced by Rep. Earl M. French (R-Delaware), would establish a state employment relations board with authority to register unions and union officials and supervise their elections and other activities. The bill also would require a majority vote of a plant's employes to call a strike, require 20 days' notice of intent to strike and prohibit sitdowns and slowdowns, sympathy strikes and mass picketing.

Commenting on French's statements that he had been threatened since he introduced the bill, Hannah said he had appealed unsuccessfully to French to give him the names of any persons who threatened him.

Silvey told the committee: "This bill is calculated to destroy labor unions; to put them out of business completely. I doubt whether the proponents know that."

The judiciary committee will conduct another hearing on the bill next Tuesday evening.

2-DAY ILLNESS ENDS IN DEATH

Bucyrus Woman, Native of Germany, Dies at 94.

BUCYRUS—Ill only two days, Mrs. Katherine Hagmaier, 94, died last evening at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Croneis.

Lederman, educational director of the UERMW, will discuss pending national and state legislation of interest to labor. Education along this line is the purpose of the public affairs committee.

Following the talk, a film, "Millions of Us," depicting labor's role in the defense program, will be shown.

Present at last night's session were delegates from UERMW No. 711, of Westinghouse; URW No. 17, of the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company; Delano Lodge No. 169, of the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company; Ohio Brass local; Employes 756 of the Ideal Electric; Truck Drivers Local 40, Laborers' Local 1216; IREWB 688, and Mansfield Federation of Teachers 70.

IN HOLLYWOOD-- By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—There was John Wayne, looking big and handsome in his cowboy duds, and some of us allowed as to how it must be pretty easy on the wardrobe budget, being a cowboy and not having to fork over big pay-dirt for clothes.

Big John Wayne grinned wryly.

"That's what you think," he said. "Let's figure it out."

He did. And I'll pass it on so next time you see Wayne in ordinary clothes you won't think he's stepping out of character. You'll even suspect he's wearing his "good" clothes to save his cowboy regalia.

Coons

Wayne isn't a full-fledged cowboy any more. He plays other kinds of parts, even wears party clothes sometimes, in other types of pictures. Right now he's playing a cowboy again, that's just because "Lady Takes a Chance" has a western setting. It's not a shoot-'em-up. It's a comedy. Jean Arthur's the girl, so you know what kind of comedy.

"This shirt, now," said Big John. "It's not fancy, just blue wool worsted, made to order. They're 25 bucks apiece. I use about 24 a year—that's $600.

"And this hat—it's my favorite, and about 15 years old—was 40 bucks. I don't know how many hat I've lost—people borrow 'em for costume parties, or keep 'em for souvenirs. But it's hard to get a good hat now. Takes a long time to break in a hat, get it into shape. I'm wearing a black one later in the picture—one the studio got—that doesn't fit. Best they could do. Studios will get your clothes for you, but it's usually pretty cheap stuff, doesn't feel right.

"You take boots. You get a bad fit and they ruin your feet. These cost 43 bucks—and the only fancy work is a little stitching over the top. It's the stitching that jumps the price.

"I always figure the important things are a hat, good boots and a good-looking belt. I took a tip on that from Harry Carey. Harry looks like a real cowboy—no fancy shirts, or fancy pants, but good-looking, substantial stuff."

Other items in the Wayne wardrobe budget: dress-up pants, $25 a pair; spurs, $25 a pair, plus $4 or $5 for straps, silver conches, and such; belts—Wayne's favorite is a $40 silver-buckled number, but fancier ones come higher; scarves, and a silver loop to hold them, $5 to $6; small leather hatband, tiny silver clasp, $5 belt and holster, $40 to $50; six-shooters, $75 to $100 apiece.

"Then you take saddles," big John finished. "I've got three—not fancy—and I'm in for about $1,000 on them."

Let's figure it for a rough total of $828—every time John Wayne gets dressed for action. That's what's actually on his back—and his horse's—when he walks into a western scene.

It is now Sgt. Robert Ankrum, which is a quick jump up for the former Mansfield Brave shortstop since the last time we heard, and it wasn't very long ago, Bob was a private. He got his sergeant's chevrons on March 19.

And that is not all. In a letter to a friend in Mansfield, Bob reports that he has also been made athletic director for his regiment, and has a grand setup.

His basketball team went through the season undefeated, and had a steak dinner in an Abilene, Texas, hotel in celebration.

Right now Sgt. Ankrum is on maneuvers getting up at 4 a. m. and roaming all over "no man's land," which is what he calls this state in which he is deep in the heart of.

He has charge of a P. X. truck, with everything possible to sell—even beer, and carries a green flag which means that he is neutral and can't be captured. From here it would seem that truck would be a prime military objective, if the beer is cold.

When Bob returns to baseball, you can expect him to carry a green flag around the bases, so he can't be captured. But maybe a neutral run wouldn't count. Every year new rules!

Bob writes that it's perfect weather down there, but that he will have to be content with just thinking about it. He doesn't expect to play any baseball until this thing is over.

He also writes that he doesn't think much of the WAAC's, but then he is writing to a girl friend and what would you say in a case like that?

She doesn't mind if the rest of Bob's Mansfield friends write him a letter, so here's his address:

Sgt. Robert Ankrum
Co. G. 66th Med. Rgt.
APO 403 Annex.
Care of Postmaster
Shreveport, La.

Bob's story of his undefeated basketball team may remind you of the story here not so long ago of Charlie Saprano's championship cage team out at Camp Atterbury, Ind.

You should hear Charlie's brother, Sam, tell that story.

"You know," says Sam, "Charlie has a lot of that old stuff."

And here's Sam's story:

Charlie's commanding officer says to him: "Saprano, we've got to have a winning team out there. Do you think you can give it to us?"

Now Charlie had played a little basketball, and refereed a lot of it, but had never tried teaching it, but—

"Sir," says Charlie, "Sir, if they've got any basketball in em, I'll get it out of 'em, sir!"

* * *

"And all I did," says Charlie, "was sit on the bench and worry. And if those guys hadn't won, I'd have marched right straight to the kitchen and started peeling those potatoes."

Bivins Defeats Coast Battler

LOS ANGELES —(U.P.)— Heavy-shouldered Jimmy Bivins, so-called duration light heavyweight champion, won an easy decision last night over Watson Jones, strictly a hometown product.

Bivins, Cleveland negro with a deadly jab and short vicious rights, next meets Pat Valentino at San Francisco on April 26.

Dusky Jones, wild-haired and wild swinging, was making his first step into big time boxing after banging through all available local boys, but found the advance in class pretty rough.

Clean-punching Bivins found himself in trouble only twice—in the fifth and sixth rounds when Jones connected with wild right hand punches that had him slightly rubber-legged.

* * *

Bivins started out fast with his snaky jabs and short rights, slowed slightly during the middle of the fight but warmed up in the later stages and finally wound up cracking Jones to the canvas for a six count just as the bell ended the 10th and final round.

PITCHERS PICKED

FRENCH LICK, Ind. —(AP)— Orval Grove, Gordon Maltzberger and Floyd Speer will pitch for the Chicago White Sox today in the club's informal game with the Chicago Cubs. Maltzberger and Speer are rookies while Manager Jimmy Dykes is sending Grove to the mound to see if he has fully recovered from a knee operation.

College Football Slighted

Civilian Supply Report Lists Sport Ratings.

By ARTHUR F. DEGREVE

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)— A tentative study of bedrock economy gives generous recognition of the importance of professional baseball, football and hockey to wartime morale, it was revealed today.

But horse and dog racing, and college football are considered relatively unimportant to civilian morale by the report.

The report was compiled by the office of civilian supply of the war production board at the request of Economic Stabilization Director James F. Byrnes. Now in the process of revision, it was intended to present the OCS's ideas of the minimum needs of the civilian population below which cuts should not be made. It does not represent any settled policy of the government.

The report was presented in terms of paid admissions to sports events. A virtual green light was given by OCS to professional baseball with the notation that admission to this popular sport should not be allowed to fall below 70 per cent of the 1941 gate which totaled $20,900,000. . Bedrock admissions were fixed at $14,700,000.

Admissions to professional football and hockey games could be halved, the report said.

College football was a poor runner up. The survey showed that attendance at these games could be cut to 20 per cent of the 1941 figure.

* * *

Horse and dog racing finished literally in the cellar. OCS experts decided that a cut-back to 10 per cent of 1941 activities in this field was bedrock.

The overall cut in spectator sports admissions which totaled $20,900,000 in 1941 was 23 per cent, or $14,700,000.

Patronage of outdoor sports could be sharply curtailed, the report showed. For example, it held that under bedrock economy there would be no need to continue hunting and fishing licenses.

Greens fees for municipal golf courses could be cut to 5 per cent of 1941 charges and a 30 per cent cut could be made in greens fees for commercial golf courses.

The study placed high on its list certain indoor sports which are heavily patronized by men in the armed services and by war workers. It held that bedrock for billiard parlors and bowling alleys was 90 per cent of 1941 charges.

* * *

The theater also drew a high bedrock priority. Admissions to motion picture theaters should be maintained at 90 per cent of those in 1941 and at legitimate theaters at 80 per cent. Overall theater admissions in 1941 totaled $943,000,000. Bedrock: $809,600,000.

The OCS report minimized the need of slot and pinball machines, juke boxes, etc.

Many considerations entered into the bedrock figures, OCS said. They included the amount of leisure to recreational pursuits and the transportation problem.

BUCYRUS PREPARES FOR FIRST SHOOT

BUCYRUS — Bucyrus Gun club grounds are being prepared for the opening shoot of the season, tentatively set for April 18 when the maple syrup shoot will be staged.

An annual event, the syrup shoot is expected to attract approximately 150 trap shooters from all sections of Ohio.

From the Minors

GEORGE STIRNWEISS, the speed merchant of the Newark Bears who is expected to open the season as the New York Yankees' shortstop this year, is the former University of North Carolina football and basketball star who made several All-American teams. Stirnweiss, besides hitting a respectable figure, .270, for Newark last year, stole 78 bases to lead the minor league loop. Called "Snuffy," Stirnweiss stands 5 feet 8 inches and weighs 175.

Bucky Likes Philly Job

Turns Down Chance To Get Bobo Newsom.

HERSHEY, Pa. — (AP) — This probably sounds like a guy cheering the arrival of his mother-in-law, but Stanley R. Harris is getting "a terrific kick" out of managing the Phillies.

It could be Bucky's thrill comes from the knowledge he definitely has escaped from Bobo Newsom, because at his request, Bill Cox, the Phils' new owner, turned thumbs down when Branch Rickey wanted to trade him the big wind from Hartville, S. C. Bucky admits that when Bobo could pitch, there was at least a reason to put up with him, "but now that he can't pitch much any more, well—"

Or it could be the bang Bucky gets comes from getting away from the Washington Senators, which could hardly be called a Manager's Garden of Eden, with or without apple trees. Yet, jumping from the Nats to the Phillies would appear to be something like making a choice between wearing tight shoes or just having your toes pinched with a pair of pliers.

"Don't kid yourself," Bucky replies to this. "Nothing much has changed down at Washington this spring. It's still the same old thing—which is no situation to start waving the flags about.

"That's the reason I'm getting such a bang out of this new job here. This is strictly a 'new faces' show. I have a chance to build a ball club from the ground up under Mr. Cox, who is a hustling young executive. I'm having pretty much my way in how to put the team together and in tabbing players I'd like to have in trade."

Rams Drop From Pro Grid Loop

Suspension Granted Cleveland Club.

By TOMMY DEVINE

CHICAGO — (U.P.) — With the Cleveland Rams a war-time casualty the National Football league's future was clouded today by the possibility other clubs might drop out long before the 1943 scheduled is inaugurated next September.

* * *

Cleveland petitioned to suspend "for the duration" yesterday and league officials countered by giving the Rams permission to drop out for the coming season.

Withdrawal of the Rams immediately multiplied the problems facing the pro circuit. President Elmer Layden had a schedule drawn up and was to submit it for approval today. However, the playing card must now be revised completely and he doubted if the new chart could be ready for study at the present meeting.

Despite dropping out of the league, Cleveland will go through with its participation in the player draft tomorrow, but its title to the 20 college seniors it selects will be short-lived.

The players the Rams select in the draft, coupled with 90 on the reserve list and 28 on the active list immediately will be put up for "grabs" by the remaining nine clubs.

Layden announced the following method would be used for distribution of the accumulated Cleveland talent:

Names of all players on the active, reserve and drafted list will be placed in a hat. Then from another hat the clubs will select numbers from one to nine to determine the order in which the Ram gridders will be drawn.

* * *

Players known to be in the armed services will be scratched from the Cleveland lists before selections are made.

Coach Chile Walsh of the Rams estimated "that between 14 and 18 players on the active list remain available for play next season" but he declined to divulge the names of those performers.

The Rams never had a winning team during the six year tenure in the league. The best mark was five victories, five losses and a tie in 1939. Last season the club finished seventh in the standing with five triumphs and six losses.

Cleveland's withdrawal focused attention on the difficulties the league faces and while its lead was not followed immediately, four other club owners were known to be skeptical of their ability to operate.

Reds Lose First Contest to Cubs

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. — (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds endeavored to return to the victory column at the expense of their training camp "buddies," the Indianapolis Indians, today following infliction of the initial spring training defeat yesterday by the Chicago Cubs at French Lick.

* * *

Johnny Vander Meer, former Indianapolis twirler, is expected to make his belated 1943 debut, scheduled for the first five innings and followed by fireman Joe Beggs for the remaining four rounds.

* * *

Bob Malloy, rookie hurler, made a favorable impression with Manager Bill McKechnie in the Cub game yesterday, giving evidence of enough ability to possibly remain with the Rhinelanders throughout the season.

321 TEAMS ENTERED IN OHIO PIN TOURNEY

CLEVELAND —(INS)— A total of 321 teams, largest in six years, are entered in the Ohio State Bowling association tourney which gets underway at the Linsz Recreation here Saturday, it was announced today.

Cleveland heads the entry list with 119 Squads. Dayton has 34 and Toledo entered 30. Firing will continue until May 16.

CHUCK SNYDER LEADS IN HEADPIN TOURNEY

Chuck Snyder took the lead with 103 pins as the Westinghouse headpin tournament opened last night at Colony alleys. Close behind were R. McKinney and Tony Schadek with 101, and Phil Warga and J. Romig with 100.

Other leaders were: C. Reep 99, Pete Zeides 97, K. Hubbs 96, J. Wood and J. Cox 95, P. Whisler and W. Ruhl 94.

Bangtails Ready for Jamaica Opening

Inactivity on the horse racing circuit will end Thursday when the eastern racing season gets under way at Jamaica, Long Island, track, shown here. Jamaica is the scene of the Wood Memorial, which is a tuneup for the annual Kentucky Derby at Louisville, Ky., in May.

Ritz Adds to League Lead

Scores Shutout as Silver Kings Slip.

Silver Kings slipped a notch in their drive to overtake the Transportation league leading Ritz Nite club keglers at Colony alleys last night, winning a 2-1 decision while Ritz was chalking up a 3-0 victory.

R. Dunn of Sons of Herman No. 2 turned in high total of 598, and Gaubatz of Sons of Herman No. 1 had high game of 226. Sons No. 2 had high team game of 914, and Ritz had high total of 2563.

THREE TEAMS ROLL IN J. A. C. JOUST

Three teams will reprsent Mansfield in the statewide J. A. C. bowling tournament being sponsored this year by the Mansfield Junior Association of Commerce at Colony alleys May 1-2.

Coordinator for this activity is Jimmy Morgan who has announced the following committees: housing and party, John Moore and Don Zelenka; publicity and correspondence, Lowell Moore; alley plans and prize distribution, Harry Hollingsworth; finance, Robert LeFevre.

AL CLINCHES JOB

BALTIMORE — (AP) — Most of his friends laughed when he said he'd do it but Al Simmons, who will be 40 next month, has virtually clinched a Boston Red Sox outfield berth. Rookie Tom McBride and Veteran Pete Fox will flank the centerfield veteran.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Horse race bettors who have been enjoying an enforced vacation for a few days will have a fresh lot of horses to put their money on when the eastern season opens tomorrow. . . . Most of the southern favorites haven't reached Jamaica yet, and Narragansett, which opens Saturday, has only about half as many nags as usual. . . . The reason—transportation.

NO. 1 FAN.

One reason why all good ball players seem to wind up at the Norfolk naval station is Capt. H. A. McClure, commanding officer at the base. . . . He's the only non-player allowed to sit on the bench; he's the first one to congratulate anyone who socks a homer and the other day when Dom DiMaggio tumbled over the fence chasing a fly, the captain jumped into the nearest car and whizzed out to see if he was hurt.

SHORTS AND SHELLS.

The Dodgers recently asked the Connecticut interscholastic athletic conference for a list of high school coaches they could contact for names of boys eligible for a summer training camp. The conference turned down the request. . . . That Louisville company that makes the bats for big league baseballers is turning out a side line of policemen's billies. Maybe the umps could use a few . . . Young T. Stribling, son of the former boxer, is a promising sprinter at a Macon, Ga., high school.

Tommy Loughran is touting Phil De Angelis, one of the physical training instructors at the Parris Island, S. C., marine base, as a coming welterweight champion. . . . Report from St. Louis is that ex-Cardinal Terry Moore is due to be elevated to a lieutenancy when he gets back to Panama.

Wings Boast of Quick Victory

BOSTON —(INS)— A quick windup of the Stanley cup hockey playoff was forecast today by the confident Detroit Red Wings as they prepared to meet Boston in the third game of a series.

* * *

Detroit won the first two games of the series and were in prime condition, their fans believed, to make it four straight and the world's hockey championship.

* * *

Manager Art Ross of the Boston Bruins, however, said his men would do much better on their own home ice than they did in Detroit. It was pointed out that Detroit has won only two games in Boston in the last six seasons.

IOWA GRID COACH TAKES ARMY EXAM

IOWA CITY, Ia. —(U.P.)— Jim Harris, acting coach of the University of Iowa football team, said today he will take his army physical examination Thursday.

Harris succeeded Eddie Anderson recently when Anderson entered the army medical corps. He said he would try some other branch of the service if he fails to pass the physical.

SEES WAR FIGHTING AS PEACETIME SPORT

PHILADELPHIA —(AP)— Bayonet fighting and ju-jitsu will be all the rage as spectator sports after the war, drawing better crowds than professional boxing and wrestling, William J. Herrmann said today.

Herrmann, a fomer U. S. fencing and middleweight professional wrestling champion, said bayonet fighters would use the same protective equipment that fencers now use, and there will be strict ju-jitsu rules to keep professionals from breaking each other's necks.

BRANDT INJURED

Indians Defeated Again

Harder's Hurling One Bright Spot In Loss.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — (AP) — Manager Lou Boudreau named three rookies to hurl for the Cleveland Indians today in the third and final game of the exhibition series with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

* * *

Jack Salveson, Pete Center and Mike Naymick were assigned the task of preventing the Pirates from making a clean sweep of the series.

The bright spots in the 5 to 3 loss to Pittsburgh yesterday were the pitching of Mel Harder and the fact the Indians collected 11 hits against two of the National leaguers' better moundsmen.

Harder allowed only one Pirate to reach first base in the three innings he worked. After retiring the first eight he faced, the veteran threw a single to his rival Truett (Rip) Sewell, and then got Frankie Gustine to end his tour of duty.

Chubby Dean, who followed him, was less successful. In his three innings on the mound the Pittsburghers hit two triples, a double and a single and took full advantage of four bases on balls and an error by First Baseman Otto Denning to score four runs.

Al Smith was touched for three hits in the last three rounds, but the only run he yielded was made without a hit in the ninth.

The Indians outhit the Pirates by 11 hits to eight, but they also committed two damaging errors, and the two unearned runs handed the enemy by Otto Denning and Buddy Rosar represented the margin of victory.

BUCYRUS WATER REPORT ISSUED TO COUNCILMEN

Superintendent Resigns With Report Recommending That Post Be Abolished.

BUCYRUS—Coincident with the submission of a 11-point water works report, Bucyrus city council in regular session Tuesday night received the formal resignation of A. J. Keplinger, water works superintendent.

The report, submitted by a special citizens committee, appointed to study an engineering report and recommendations from a Toledo engineering firm, followed a long period of investigation to determine what needs to be done to put the city water system in first class order.

Chief among the recommendations were the abolition of the office of water works superintendent, held by Keplinger, raising of rates, particularly commercial rates, after the plant has been put in good condition and under good management, quick elimination of all wooden pipes, reservoir repairs and cleaning and abolition of furnishing a home with all utilities for the chief engineer as the city has been doing.

The committee also recommends that the city put aside a recent engineer report by the H. P. Jones company of Toledo, which recommended changes totaling in full around $850,000. The committee reports that the Jones recommendations are too costly "at this time."

The 11 recommendations are:

1—Repair spillway at No. 2 reservoir.

2—Repair level valves and screens No. 1 reservoir.

3—Install new water mains and replace existing wood mains.

4—Repair settling tanks and build roof over them.

5—Electrify water plant as soon as possible.

6—Clean reservoirs.

7—Replace pipe between reservoir No. 1 and No. 2.

8—Move meter repair from office to plant.

9—Abolish office of water works superintendent.

10—Adjust water rates.

11—Terminate the arrangement of free housing and utilities for the chief engineer.

Committee members J. C. Hull, J. F. Keebe, J. E. Faulkner, W. F. Mader and H. R. Kibler found while investigating the plant, they reported, that certain valves at one of the reservoirs had been neglected so long that they have become rusty and will no longer operate.

By electrifying the plant, committee members said, the state insurance obligations will be met and cheaper help can be had for operation.

The members found, they reported, that cattails and willows are growing in the reservoirs causing a very bad situation. They also found that pipes connecting the reservoirs are steel-banded wood and are in "very poor condition."

Of the water works superintendent, the committee reported that the job "has been used as a political plum and consequently men of no particular qualifications were installed on the job. A project so vital to the community as the water works should not be permitted to be used as a political football, and, in turn, jeopardize the health and safety of the community."

Of the chief engineer's recommendation, the committee found that the city is furnishing the engineer with a house, free, power, gas, water and coal. The committee feels the engineer should be paid a salary and no more.

Attached to the report was a finding of 1942's water output which shows that of the 406,604,000 gallons of water pumped and treated last year it accounted for, that 102,491,500 gallons is not accounted for.

The clinics are to be held at the school buildings.

PLUMBER DIES AT BUCYRUS

BUCYRUS — Funeral services are pending for George A. Sens, 65, retired plumber, who died Tuesday at his North Walnut street home.

Born in Bucyrus, Jan. 15, 1878, Mr. Sens was the son of Fred and Cornelia Kronenburger Sens. Survivors include the widow, Grace, and six children, Richard, of Beaumont, Tex., Arthur in the U. S. Army, and George in the U. S. Navy, and Katherine, Grace and Helen at home. Two brothers, Joe of Marion and Raymond of Bucyrus, and three sisters, Mrs. Anna Ferdinand, Mrs. Mary Meade and Miss Appolina Sens of Bucyrus, and two grandchildren also survive.

RITES ARE SET

ASHLAND—Funeral rites will be conducted at the Christian church in Sullivan Thursday at 2 p. m. for Mrs. Georgia Ann Arndt, 85, native of Alabama, who died Tuesday at the J. B. Kissel residence, 3238 Vine street, after a brief illness. Rev. C. R. Wolford of near Greenwich will officiate at the rites.

Mrs. Arndt, a resident of Ashland county for the past two years, was a member of the Christian church at Sullivan. She leaves two step-sons, Claude Arndt of Sullivan, and Clarence Arndt of Medina, and a sister, Mrs. Nora Johnson of Balston Spa, N. Y.

FUNERAL SET

ASHLAND — Funeral services will be conducted Thursday at 3 p. m. instead of 2:30 p. m. as previously announced for Ronald C. Garretson, jr., 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald C. Garretson of 430 College avenue, who met instant death early Tuesday when his car crashed into a telephone pole three miles south of Ashland.

The services will be conducted at the Garretson residence, with Rev. Harold E. Andrews of the First Presbyterian church, officiating, followed by burial in the Ashland cemetery.

Auxiliary Hears Talk on Bills Before Congress

CRESTLINE—Arthur O'Leary, past commander of McWhirter post, American Legion, spoke to members of the Legion auxiliary at their meeting Monday evening on "Bills Pending In Congress and the House of Representatives." Mrs. John Bauer, legislative chairman, who was in charge of the evening's program, introduced the speaker.

The president, Mrs. Paul Kindinger, presided for the meeting and announced that Miss Gretchen Darlington, county health nurse, would talk on "Health and Child Welfare" at the April 19 meeting. The Junior auxiliary will be guests for this meeting and Betty McComb, a past president of the Juniors, will be presented a diploma and received into the Senior auxiliary.

VOTE CLASS

Directors Vote Swim Training For Soldiers at Bucyrus 'Y.'

BUCYRUS — E. B. Hagaman, general secretary of the Y.M.C.A. for 17 years, has been re-elected for another year, members of the board of directors, who met for their annual session Monday night, announced today. The board also considered nomination for the board and a list of 11 nominees will be mailed to members for their vote.

To provide instructions in swimming for service men stationed in the city, the board voted to inaugurate a swimming program in charge of Rev. A. J. E. Manton, Red Cross swimming instructor who will be assisted by a corp of men. Approximately 200 men stationed here are unable to swim and will be enrolled in the classes, the board was informed.

W. S. Chambers, area secretary, was present and spoke briefly on the services of the layman in Y. M. C. A. activity.

CANCEL BANQUET

CRESTLINE — Due to the rationing of food the annual Mother-Daughter banquet of the Dorcas society of Trinity Lutheran church will be cancelled this year according to plans made at a meeting of the society Monday evening at the home of Mabel Hoffman.

LEAVES POST

Bucyrus Red Cross Secretary Goes To U. S. Office.

BUCYRUS—Faced with the registration of its county Red Cross chairman, A. T. Henderson, who has served in that capacity for 22 years, the board of directors of the Red Cross considered the need for the appointment of a paid executive secretary to assume the duties which have been growing steadily heavier with the advent of the country in the war.

Recommendation that the board employ a paid executive in addition to naming a county chairman was made by the resigning chairman, who leaves April 17 to assume Red Cross duties with the national office. His present plans will keep him in the United States for at least five months, he announced, in making public his resignation. He will continue his connections with the undertaking establishment of Henderson and Lutz here.

HOME FRONT'S DUTIES MAPPED BY LEGION HEAD

Cooperation as Important as Actual Fighting, Coffey Says In Address.

SHELBY — "Co-operation on the home front is as important as the fighting on the battle front," Martin V. Coffey of Middletown, department commander of the American Legion, told an audience of approximately 300 persons Tuesday night at the Army Day program in the high school building.

Coffey pointed out that no one could be rightly called a traitor more than the hoarders and others who fail to comply with the government's program.

Disclosing that the war was far from being won as yet, Martin cited the losses from U-boats and the small gains made in the Pacific to back up his statement. Germany still has a good army because it uses men from other countries to do its fighting. Japan has several million men in arms who have never been called to active service.

Chairman for the program was Wayne Hodges, O'Brien post commander, who introduced the speaker. Mayor W. R. Morris and Mrs. C. C. Fish, Red Cross representatives, also appeared on the program.

Special music was played by the Mansfield drum and bugle corps. Songs were given by the Shelby high school sextet. The Mansfield high school majorettes furnished entertainment.

Visiting Legionnaires were present from Mansfield, Ashland, Galion, Willard and Crestline.

HEAVY TRADE ADDS LIFE TO STOCK MARKET

Prices Mixed as Issues Sell In Blocks of 1,000 to 3,000 Shares.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Stock market turnover continued heavy in today's early dealings and prices of leaders were mixed. Many of the opening trades were in blocks ranging from 1,000 to 3,000 shares with low priced issues especially prominent.

Fractionally higher were Bethlehem Steel, Western Union, Goodrich and Dome Mines. Quoted a little lower were U. S. Steel, Eastman Kodak, General Electric and Anaconda.

Business items noted by market analysts included the report of Edison Electric Institute showing power distribution for the week ended April 3 at 3,889,858,000 kilowatt hours against 3,928,170,000 the previous week and 3,348,608,000 in the like period last year.

DIES AT AGE 95

Mrs. Helen Miller Was One of Oldest Galion Residents.

GALION—Mrs. Helen J. Miller, 95, one of Galion's oldest residents, died at the home of her son, Paul R. Miller, here this morning. Death was attributed to a fractured hip which she received in a fall recently.

Born March 3, 1848 in New York state, she came to Galion 13 years ago from Wellington and had lived with her son since that time.

Surviving besides her son at whose home she died, are two other sons, Clyde B. Miller of Bedford and Milo P. Miller of Lodi; one sister, Mrs. Carl Vaneman, Dayton; two step daughters, Mrs. A. J. Raw, San Diego, Cal., and Mrs. Roy Shank, Oberlin; 12 grandchildren and 12 great grandchildren, and one brother, William Enos, of Coffeeville, Kan.

Funeral services will be conducted Friday at 1 p. m. at the Snyder Funeral home with Rev. C. G. Collison, pastor of First Baptist church officiating. Burial will be in Chatham cemetery.

GUESTS AT CLUB

CRESTLINE — Guests present for the C. F. N. club meeting held at the home of Mrs. Harlan Koontz Monday evening included Mrs. Elwood Adams, Mrs. John Armstrong and Mrs. John Beach.

THEATERS

Music and Mirth.

With one of the biggest radio personality parades in recent screen history, Columbia's "Reveille With Beverly" opens today at the Ohio. Ann Miller, dancing star, heads the featured cast of the new film. Others in the cast, in addition to William Wright, Dick Purcell, Adele Mara, and Barbara Brown, are: Bob Crosby and his orchestra; Freddie Slack and his orchestra; Duke Ellington and his orchestra; Count Basie and his orchestra; Frank Sinatra, romantic vocalist; the Mills Brothers and the Radio Rogues. "Reveille With Beverly" is based upon the early-morning radio "jam session" of the same name, tracing its origin and its eager Army camp audiences.

Turns Detective.

Lionel Barrymore turns detective in his new M.G.M. production, "Dr. Gilespie's New Assistant," now showing at the Madison. Confronted with a baffling medical case, the doctor deduces that there is some reason why it will not yield to medical science. He places his assistants on the trail, and the results form an absorbing mystery drama. Van Johnson, Keye Luke and Richard Quine are to be seen as the physician's assistants, with Susan Peters as the patient with the mysterious ailment. Co-attraction at the Madison is "Lady Bodyguard," starring Anne Shirley and Eddie Albert.

Crawford Film.

Regarded as one of the best war stories yet to come out of Hollywood, M. G. M.'s "Reunion In France," starring Joan Crawford, Philip Dorn and John Wayne, is now playing at the Ritz. The story presents Miss Crawford as a Parisienne of the days immediately following the German occupation of the French capital. Dorn, a young Frenchman, is her sweetheart whom she rejects because of his apparent connections with France's conquerors. Wayne is a young American member of the R. A. F., an escaped prisoner of war, seeking his way back to England. "Dr. Renault's Secret" is the co-feature.

Traitor Within.

Donald M. Barry and Jean Parker co-star in the Park's number one attraction, "Traitor Within." Second attraction, "Tahiti Honey," features Simone Simon and Michael Whalen.

Ohio Legislature Expected To Approve $366,000,000 For State Operations.

debate. The administration has estimated it would reduce sales tax revenues approximately $8,000,000. The measure which won senate approval early in the session has been bottled up in a house subcommittee.

The house yesterday roundly defeated a measure proposing extensive recodification of the state's child welfare laws last revised 30 years ago.

The house passed a senate-approved bill to authorize exchange of fire fighting equipment between local governments during the war emergency, by a vote of 112-3.

Rep. Leslie M. Burge, R., Lorain, sponsoring the measure, said it would give a state fire co-ordinator authority to transfer equipment where needed to combat bombing attack or widespread sabotage, clarify the rights and protections of men and equipment loaned in such an emergency, and define financial legal and financial obligations involved in such exchange.

The senate unanimously passed the house-approved bill by Rep. Clifton L. Caryl, R., Union, establishing new reduced maximum rates for small loans and regulating and licensing conduct of small loan companies.

Other measures adopted yesterday included:

In the senate: Sen. Raymond E. Hildebrand, R., Lucas and Rep. Donald H. Rolf, R., Hamilton a house-approved bill to permit tank-car importation of wine into Ohio, where the present limit was 60-gallon containers; passed unanimously.

In the house: Reps. William F. Eirick, R., Cuyahoga and George H. Kirkpatrick, R., Knox—a bill to abolish installment payments for current taxes and to change the second-half tax payment date on real estate from Sept. 11 to June 20; passed unanimously.

STROKE FATAL

Mrs. Clayton Lutz, Bucyrus, Has 2 Sons In Service.

BUCYRUS—Mrs. Clayton Lutz, 60, who has two sons in the American armed forces, died Tuesday at her home north of Bucyrus after an illness of six days. She had suffered a stroke.

She was the mother of eight children. Lloyd is a marine at Parris Island, N. C., and Harry is a sailor, stationed at Navy Pier, Chicago. Other children are Calvin of Galion, Richard of Bucyrus, Marcelle, at home; Mrs. Adam Rossman, north of Bucyrus; Mrs. George Black, Marion, and Mrs. Larry Bowman, in Oregon.

Her husband survives, as do three brothers, John Limenstoll, Humbolt, Kas.; Dan of Troy township and Reuben of Liberty township.

Mrs. Lutz was a member of the Brokensword Methodist church and the Holmes-Liberty Community club.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2:30 p. m. Thursday at the Munz Funeral home. Burial will be in Brokensword cemetery.

HILL NAMED TO SCHOOL POST

GALION—Of interest to his many Galion friends and to others of the vicinity is the election of O. E. Hill, 39, as superintendent of the Upper Arlington schools for a five-year term.

The announcement from Columbus stated that the election of Hill brought to an end a bitter fight by J. W. Jones, superintendent for 19 years, to retain his position.

Hill was appointed assistant state director of education on Sept. 9. Prior to this appointment he had been superintendent in the Galion schools for five years. He came to Galion as Junior high principal in 1934, and became superintendent in 1936. He came here from Carroll, Fairfield county.

GIVES CONCERT

ASHLAND—Ashland high school department of music will present the second of its series of free twilight concerts at the McDowell auditorium Sunday at 4 p. m., under the direction of Dr. L. F. Pete.

The program will consist of Lenten music sung by the high school a cappella choir.

GHOST OF MY LOVE +

By Oren Arnold

(Copyright, 1943)

CHAPTER VI

Unconsciously Rosemary slowed down the car. Nobody else had spoken, but she and Little Boss started out as if enthralled. One sign had been stretched across the road between posts of rock. Steel cables held heavy boards which read:

WELCOME TO LIGHTNING!
BIGGEST SILV

The remainder of it was broken off, rotted. But it lay on the roadside, and automatically Rosemary and Bill strained to read its faded letters: ER CAMP IN ALL THE WEST!

"Ghost town!" Bill echoed himself.

"Oh, Little Boss!" Rosemary spoke in genuine awe.

"I couldn't never afford to git it put back up," Uncle Pete Quincy apologized. "It ought to be, too."

Both the others looked at him. Pride in his town! Then they looked at each other. Silent seconds ticked by; charged seconds. Rosemary, there, sensed more of Little Boss Bill St. Clair's character than she had in all her months working under him. Here was a man of quick perception and infinite kindness indeed. A distinguished city architect, who wouldn't show disappointment or hurt the feelings of a funny old eccentric for anything in the world. It made Rosemary want to cry when Little Boss said, quietly, "Of course, Uncle Pete. The sign ought to be repaired. We'll have to see to it, at once. Now which way to your hotel, please?"

"It's right up thar. You can see all of MY sign, I betcha!"

That was surely true. The Lightning City Hotel proclaimed its magnificence to the eagles and rabbits—and to the ghosts of patrons long gone. In low gear, Rosemary's car crawled up yesterday's street. The car itself now was a fantastic thing, for here was another century, a forgotten time.

Red Rock buildings lined the street, their window openings blank like sightless eyes and doors agape like the mouths of murdered men. Porch posts leaned; roofs sagged. An ore wagon tilted crazily because spokes had dropped from two wheels. A barbershop pole lay in the middle of the pavement, and lizards skittered across dress forms in show windows of what had been "The Emporium Bazaar."

The ghost street thus went on uphill for a quarter mile. Other streets lay parallel. Dwellings were stair-stepped up the steep canyon walls. Rock buildings all. Occupied by phantom women and men.

Rosemary stopped the car in front of the hotel. Bill St. Clair got out, studied the landscape in slow, panoramic appraisal. He glanced knowingly at Rosemary once more.

"Anyone else live here, Uncle Pete?" he asked gently. "Any one at all besides you?"

"No mum. Not since 1912. They tried to take me then. I wouldn't go. I got property here. I own this whole hotel!"

"Naturally. . . you wanted to stay."

"Yes mum."

"You said, 14,000 at one time? Quite a city!"

"Yes mum. That's my corral, too. Where I keep my hoss and my two pack mules that you took holt of at that train. There's water flows down. Mountain spring."

Rosemary put in, "Is that another hotel, yonder?"

"Yes'm. But you stay here! You and him! This is the biggest hotel. Don't you go register over there! We'll treat you the best!"

Rosemary's mouth made its quick little O again, and her eyes were wide. "Su-surely, Uncle Pete!"

"By all means, Uncle Pete!" Bill nodded. "Ah, see here, let's just make that definite right now. Here—" He took out a wallet and got a $10 bill. "This will serve as a depisit. Miss Lee and I may have to be traveling quite a bit, but we'll want rooms here for emergency, anyway."

* * *

Uncle Pete's eyes shone. Here was legitimate money he could take! Rightful, earned money. He told them he'd hurry on in and made the necessary arrangements, and so Rosemary and Little Boss Bill were alone here in this street of ghosts.

They looked at each other, wonderment in their eyes.

"I'd never have dreamed!" she murmured.

"We'll have to get our bearings," she said. "He seems like a grand old man, even if he is a little, uh—"

"Teched," she supplied.

"I suppose that's the word. Be kind to him. I know you will."

"Surely. But—What shall we do now? We're in a blind alley again."

"He may come right back out, Rosemary. Let's walk up the street while I try to think. You said you made no progress back in Option? They wouldn't help with building the air field?"

"No. They almost laughed at me, because - " she broke off. Her personal tragedy, plus her business failure here, surged back on her, blacking out any interest in this strange ghost setting. "Oh, Little Boss, there is so much! So much I must tell!"

"Is there? . . . Well, you do look—I mean—you've been saying that you—" He stopped, and swallowed, looking down at her.

Rosemary dropped her eyes. Ineffable loneliness surged through her now. This was the showdown. This was the moment when she must end it all. All sweetness, the yearning, the hopeful little self-delusion she had permitted herself in the past weeks. A tightness seemed to be strangling her.

"Let's sit over here on the porch of—" Bill looked up at a sign, "—of the Night-and-Day Assay Office, Rosemary. And, uh—perhaps we can assay your troubles. If trouble it is, hmm?"

She walked with him without speaking. The porch was of rock like the building, and a railing made comfortable if uncushioned seats. He took off his hat, waiting.

"You remember Harry Boyle," she began.

"Back in Washington? The chap who—who was suspected of graft, in connection with this air field land? I never met him, no. But I'm sure he—"

"It was more than suspected, Bill," this was the first time she had called Little Boss by his real name. Bill. But she had come to regard him as some one nearer to her, dear to her indeed, even though forever lost.

"You mean you - you?"

"I mean, Bill, that the graft was real. I couldn't prove it, for a court. But I know. I was close to it myself." All the life had ebbed out of her tone.

Still he waited.

"I mean—oh Bill, it's terrible, but—" she was about to cry again, and so she plunged frantically on. "But I was a fool back there! I met Harry Boyle one night at dinner. He—he made love to me, all in a mad hurry! And—the next morning we—oh, Bill, I am Harry Boyle's wife!"

Hankinson was arrested on a warrant filed by William Karrer, proprietor of the Crescent cafe who cashed the forged check. The defendant is scheduled to go before Municipal Judge H. H. Schettler Thursday morning.

Three Apprehended — Three motorists were arrested for traffic violations yesterday, state patrolmen reported. Frederick B. Tracy, Chicago, posted $16.30 bond in municipal court on charges of operating a car with expired Illinois license plates. Louis Trisera, Cleveland, also posted $16.30 bond after being arrested for speeding on U. S. Route 42 last night. Phillip Durst, Cleveland, was fined $10 and costs in municipal court this morning on charges of speeding last night on U. S. Route 42.

CATTLE RUSTLIN' COMES BACK WITH BIGGER DEMAND FOR MEAT

CHEYENNE, Wyo. — (INS) — Shades of the wild and wooly old-time west, complete with cowboys, rustlers and gun-toting vigilantes were again in evidence in the cattle raising states of Colorado, Wyoming and New Mexico. Stockmen reported that cattle rustlers, apparently attracted by the quick money to be made in the bootleg meat markets, were operating to an extent that hadn't been equaled in years.

In Wyoming, for example, Russell Thorp, secretary of the Wyoming Stock Growers association, with offices in Cheyenne, reported that more instances of cattle "just disapearing" had come to his attention recently than "at any time previously in the last 10 years."

The modern war-time rustler is of the high powered type, stockmen said. Using speedy pickup trucks they drive down on a herd of cattle in the dead of night, throw a loop on four or five choice steers, load them and whiz away to deliver their live loot to black markets in nearby cattle centers. Prices for such cattle range as high as $1 per pound over the usual market price.

In an isolated and rugged community where trucks cannot readily operate, or the pinch of gas and tire rationing has been felt, the time-honored method of rustling cattle from the deck of a horse is used with good effect.

Cowpokes now ride herd with a .45 slung low on the hip and a Winchester in the saddle holster as raids become more and more frequent and black market rustlers bolder and bolder.

As in the old days too, the most effective means of combating the recent rustling epidemic are the modern version of the "posse" made up of stern-visaged, straight-shooting ranchers who have been actual victims of the raids.

In New Mexico, stockmen expressed the opinion that until the government has found an effective way to put an end to the black meat markets, cattle rustling would increase. A spokesman for a New Mexico stock growers group declared:

"It's a pity that appeals to patriotism have not stopped the meat bootleggers and their partners in crime, the cattle rustlers. Maybe .30-.30 rifle bullets and threats of lynching would make them see the light.

"—But then," he added, "I guess it all comes down to the consumer. If there 'warn't' no demand—there wouldn't be any rustlin'."

ROMMEL FLEES AFTER BRITISH CRACK DEFENSE

Americans Score on 2 Fronts Driving Toward Coastal Escape Route.

bombers, Boston attack bombers and fighters made repeated assaults on La Fauconneirie airfield northwest of Sfax and other landing grounds and swept all along the front.

In another fierce foray against Axis shipping in the Sicilian straits six enemy ships were sunk from a convoy and an ammunition ship blown up.

Flying Fortresses, in another battle during the bombing of a convoy off Bizerte, shot down 15 enemy fighters, the war bulletin said.

Tunis in Tunisia and Trapani in Sicily were heavily attacked by Wellingtons and medium and fighter-bombers. Bombs were seen to burst on the docks, the communique said.

Altogether 27 enemy aircraft were reported destroyed yesterday compared with a loss of five Allied machines.

This brought to 79 the two-day toll of enemy aircraft taken by Allied airpower in the African theater.

Besides the seven ships accounted for out of one convoy, many other ships "of all classes" were sunk or severely damaged by the "heavy and very successful" attack at Trapani, the communique said.

Among enemy planes shot down were four Italian torpedo bombers which attempted to attack Allied shipping off the Algerian coast.

(Axis communiques quickly acknowledged General Montgomery's offensive was under way again after heavy artillery bombardments.

("Fighting is in full swing," the German communique broadcast by the Berlin radio said.

(The Italian war bulletin broadcast by the Rome radio said the attack was preceded "with a violent artillery barrage and a large-scale use of tanks."

(The Italians also disclosed Messina and Ragusa as well as Trapani were bombed. Forty persons were killed and more than a hundred injured in the Trapani raid, the Italians said, and six were killed at Messina.)

The announcement Montgomery's forces were again on the move was first made in a special communique from Gen Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters last night.

"The Eighth army attacked the Akarit position at 4:30 a. m.," a headquarters communique announced.

"The first objectives have been captured and the attack is proceeding according to plan."

Montgomery employed his artillery in a heavy bombardment of the enemy lines 20 miles north of Gabes before his bayonet-wielding troops began to move across the sandy wastes, flanked by veteran armored forces that had started Rommel running at El Alamein last October.

Montgomery had waited a week to bring up his troops and supplies after capturing Gabes, and in that time shaped a new campaign with his noted meticulousness.

Flying weather over the front was reported excellent as the drive began, giving the Allies opportunity to capitalize on their aerial superiority.

Allied airmen supporting Patton's Americans in the Birmrabott Pass region 10 miles east of El Guetar smashed at a heavy concentration of enemy tanks near Djebel Berda, and dispatches from that sector said the enemy's armor withdrew without attacking.

Infantry patrols then advanced along Gumtree road toward Gabes, contacting the enemy at only one point. Associated Press Correspondent Harold V Boyle said. The American forces also used 155 mm. guns to silence nine enemy batteries in the Djebel Berda area, he said. Three heavy German howitzers were destroyed with direct hits at 16,000 yards—more than nine miles.

Montgomery, who usually sends his men into battle with the admontion "good hunting," has said Tunis is his objective. If he forces Rommel into Sfax, the desert fox will have his back to a wide plain, and will face the prospect of a 72-mile retreat north to Sousse without the benefit of any natural defense barriers to slow Montgomery's tanks and with no protections from aerial onslaughts.

Reports British 'In Hot Pursuit'

LONDON—(AP)—Prime Minister Churchill announced in the house of commons today the British Eighth army had achieved "a new victory" in an attack on the Axis positions at wadi El Akarit in Tunisia and that Field Marshal Rommel now was retreating northward with General Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's troops in hot pursuit.

More than 6,000 enemy prisoners have been taken so far, the prime minister declared.

Churchill added that the success soon should "enable the Eighth army to join hands with the United States forces which have been pressing the enemy unceasingly from the west."

The British advance was preceded and covered by a barrage of about 800 guns—a bombardment which resembled the one that touched off the Eighth army offense at El Alamein, Churchill declared.

All key positions along the Akarit line were taken in seven and one-half hours after the attack was launched at 4:30 a. m., he added.

Commons cheered loudly when the prime minister declared:

"I have reports from the high command in Tunisia that a new victory has been gained by the desert army."

Asked by Capt. Frederick John Bellenger, labor member whether the reports indicated that the desert army was engaged with the enemy main forces or merely with rear guards, Churchill replied:

"My statement covers the whole position. The enemy retread did not begin until the assault was successful."

Stage Hit-Run Raid Over England

LONDON—(AP)—German hit-and-run fighter-bombers attacked two towns on the British southeast coast shortly after dawn today, causing some casualties and damaging a number of business establishments.

Six planes participated in the raid on one town, where a motion picture theater and a newspaper office were among the buildings wrecked. One plane was reported shot down.

The assaults followed a raid-free night in Britain.

The air ministry announced reconnaissance photographs taken after the mighty RAF raid on Berlin March 1 showed that 30 large factories, large blocks of centrally located business offices, and railway repair shops of the Templehof freight yards were destroyed or badly damaged.

Backs Eisenhower On De Gaulle Delay

LONDON—(AP)—Prime Minister Churchill said in the house of commons today he was in full accord with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in the latter's request to Gen. Charles De Gaulle to delay his proposed trip to North Africa.

The Fighting French leader delayed his trip for conferences with Gen. Henri Giraud, high commissioner in French and north and west Africa, at Eisenhower's request.

Gen. Charles Catroux, liaison officer between De Gaulle and Giraud, already is in North Africa, and De Gaulle had been expected to follow early this week.

It was generally believed the active military situation, with American and British armies in pursuit of Axis Marshal Erwin Rommel's forces in Tunisia, had made it difficult for the Allied commander-in-chief to devote time to political discussions.

Nazis Hurled Back In Donets Area

LONDON—(AP)—New German attempts to storm Russian positions south of Izyum, on the Donets river, have been hurled back by the Red army, with almost two companies of German infantry wiped out by Russian artillery, trench mortar and machine gun fire, the Soviet midday communique announced today.

This was in the area where the Russian midnight communique said a strong Russian counter-attack had driven the Germans from a favorable position.

Northward on the winding Donets, southeast of Kharkov, an enemy tank attack was repulsed and Soviet guns destroyed a number of German pillboxes and the men holding them, the noon war bulletin said.

On the Smolensk front Soviet artillery smashed 10 trucks in a supply column, it was said.

POLICE CARS TO BE PAINTED RED

ASHLAND—Ashland police cars are going to be seen as well as heard in the very near future, city council having voted to have the cars painted bright red.

The new color effect is expected to deter speeding motorists and to lend a feeling of security to townspeople who recognize the cruisers patrolling their beats.

An old patrol car, newly replaced with a new cruiser, has been turned over to Fire Chief Paul Soles and it is to receive a coat of red, only it will be redder than the cruisers—firewagon red, the councilmen ordered.

RETURNS HOME

ASHLAND—Clarence H. Fendrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. R E Fendrick, Ashland, has returned to Ashland after receiving his honorable discharge from the U. S. Army after serving the past seven months. The discharge was granted for disability. Fendrick, who was inducted as a private in September, 1942, received his training with the medical corps at Livingston, La., and Camp Stoneman, Calif.

Fendrick will resume his work with the Galion Iron Works this week.

been improved and said that special army units have been formed to combat parachutists and saboteurs.

Italy's appeal to Germany for increased aid was said to have been addressed to Adolf Hitler by Mussolini last month. Hitler refused to commit himself, but in response to further communications from Rome, decided to send Ribbentrop to Italy for conferences, it was reported.

The German underground station Gustave Siegfried Eins, pro-German but anti-Nazi in character, said Mussolini asked that three German Panzer, two anti-aircraft and two other army divisions plus two air corps be dispatched to Italy immediately.

In addition Gustave Siegfried Eins said, Mussolini demanded that:

1—All German units in Italy be placed under Italian command.

2—More anti-aircraft guns be sent to Corsica.

3—All Italian Panzer units be equipped with German Mark VI tanks.

4.—Germany take over the defense of the Dodecanese.

5—Germany send back to Italy 135,000 Italian workers.

The station quoted Gen. Franz Halder, deposed chief of staff of the German high command, as saying that the only solution to the Italian problem would be to abandon Southern Italy and hold a line stretching from Genoa to Ravenna only long enough to permit the evacuation of Italian industry in Northern Italy to Germany. Then, Halder was quoted as saying the Axis could fall back behind the Alps.

supply Fisher said would be available for retail stores. A similar amount is available for taverns.

Consumers in the state of Washington are restricted to one quart or two pints of whisky or gin weekly, plus a fifth of scotch. They also can purchase any portion of the previous week's allotment that might not have been bought that particular week. Utah's ration is one quart weekly.

North Carolinians get one pint a week and residents of Iowa one quart each week. Such allotments are far out of line with Ohio's prospects, the drinking public complained.

Those who were accustomed to out-of-state buying trips had their plans dashed by Fisher's tirade against such buyers even if they did not resell or give away their purchases.

"There is no legal method by which an individual can buy liquor outside of the state," he affirmed.

ACCUSE PETAIN

Nazis Charge He Tolerated North Africa Conspiracy.

LONDON—(AP)—Geneva dispatches said today that Germany has accused French Chief of State Marshal Henri Philippe Petain of violating the Franco-German armistice of 1940 by "tolerating a conspiracy in the American consulates in (French) North Africa."

Maintenance of American consulates in France's African possessions played an important part in the arranging of the successful American landings in Algeria and Morocco last November.

Germany's accusation, purportedly contained in a letter sent to Petain by Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, may presage even more rigid German control of France.

Wagner wanted council to boost his secretary's pay $20 a month at first and then requested $15. Council protested that she doesn't work more than half time for the city, and reduced the amount to $10. The city has been contributing $50 a month to her salary and Wagner added the other $30. the sirens will mean enemy raiders are overhead.

"We must quit thinking of alarms only in relation to the times for which they are scheduled and realize their significance," he said.

Rules for the black-out were issued today by Police Capt. Jess J. Schwab, OCD commander, who warned that "failure of even one civilian to carry out the black-out rules may bring injury or death to many in an air raid."

Commander Schwab's "dont's" for civilians include:

Don't forget to close transoms, ventilators, glass doors, small windows, and plug cracks around doors if you have a refuge room.

Don't paint windows if you need them for light.

Don't open a door during the black-out or let light show even for a moment.

Don't leave a single light burning in the house if you retire early and are a sound sleeper.

Don't smoke inside the building unless shades are drawn.

Don't permit lights to show on the porch, in the garage, or other out buildings.

Don't use the telephone unless absolutely necessary.

He warned pedestrians not to use flashlights, seek the nearest shelter, and if unable to get into a building, stay close to the corners of buildings, or lie flat on the ground close to a wall.

For motorists, he issued these "don'ts."

Don't double park, park in alleys or under fire escapes, remain in your car during an air raid, lock your car doors, park on a main thoroughfare, leave lights on car turned on, or park near fire hydrants.

Although the public will not need to observe Thursday night's signals until 9:25 when the first steady note of the sirens is sounded, defense auxiliaries will be notified at 9.05 p. m. by the yellow signal in OCD code and will mobilize immediately.

Industries engaged in war production are not required to participate in the Thursday black-out Commander Schwab said, but they may participate voluntarily.

ILL 9 MONTHS

John G. Flock, 77, Dies At Bucyrus Hospital.

BUCYRUS—John George Flock, 77, laborer, died early today in City hospital after an illness of nine months. He was a native of Bucyrus.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Ross Flickinger, and a son, Clarence, both of Bucyrus, and a sister, Mrs. Mary Reager.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p. m. Friday at the Wise Funeral home and burial will be in Oakwood cemetery.

was found in Mansfield and administered to the railroad worker.

That vial proved insufficient and a search was begun for more serum. One package sent as a rush shipment was lost on the way. Last night relatives of the sick man drove to Toledo for more serum where trouble again entered the picture. By mistake they were given the wrong serum.

The last hope was an airplane which could rush the correct serum to the hospital. A call went out to the airport where CAP fliers, always on the alert for emergencies, went into action.

When the call came at 9:30 the two fliers, Cummins and Jacobson, volunteered for the flight. After checking flying conditions and making speedy preparations, they took off in a Luscombe Silvaire with a top speed of 115 miles per hour. However, the poor visibility, snow and wind were expected to make the flight difficult, and increase their flying time above normal. Toledo is about 80 airline miles from Mansfield.

DADS TO BE IN SPECIAL 3-A

Hardship Cases Also Included In Classification, Draft Officials Indicate.

ency classes of draft registrants is approaching the final drafting stage. It has been received favorably by state selective service directors who yesterday concluded a two-day conference on the subject with Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national selective service director.

Hershey once said that the drafting of fathers would begin about July 1, but now he will not discuss a specific date because of several factors, including a belief that it might be delayed by the possibility that public opinion is going to drive from the factories the young men whose sole claim to deferment has been occupation.

The projected reclassification would result in taking a man from class 3-A and placing him in 1-A, subjecting him to imminent induction, if he has no grounds for occupational deferment, or in 2-A, if he is a necessary man in a civilian job. Those in 3-B would be placed in 2-B if entitled to occupational deferment.

The 3-C's, those deferred both for dependency and agricultural reasons, would become 2-C's, but would continue to enjoy the virtual certainty of duration-long deferment. There is no certainty on the 2-A and 2-B deferments which generally are good for only six months in order to permit training of a replacement.

That Extra Something!
...You can spot it every time

THE Civil Air Patrol has recruited more than a third of the nation's 100,000 civilian pilots to fly for national defense. Coming from every walk of life, they are putting forth an extra something to do their trained part. To them and to you, in its own way, ice-cold Coca-Cola offers something extra, too. More than just quenching thirst it brings refreshment . . . refreshment that goes into energy.
Made with a finished art and with a taste all its own, Coca-Cola has quality that sets it apart. Here is something in refreshment that was, and still is, original. Coca-Cola offers all the difference between something really refreshing and just something to drink. There's no comparison.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 7, 1943.

Abrupt shift from "a quart a day" to "a pint a month" leaves a lot of middle ground for exploration.

What was ever done about that national movement to devise ways for people to use their leisure time?

This year's Easter date—April 25—is the latest on which it can fall, the variation being from March 22 to April 25. Not until 2038—95 years from now—will April 25 be the observed date. As you may recall, it has not been since 1886 that Easter reached the date limit.

Selective Service Complications

EFFORTS to explain why men should not be drafted for essential war work, as well as for military service, become increasingly difficult as realization grows that winning the war must be considered more important than opening the way for increased wages, higher prices and bigger profits.

When news of fatalities among service men becomes localized in various communities, as it has already become in Mansfield and this north-central Ohio area, people are more inclined to realize the horrors of war and to take a more realistic view of relative importance of sacrifices.

In the face of needs to increase the size of the army, maintain and enlarge industrial production of war equipment and meet requirements for farm help, it is little wonder that Selective Service Director Hershey finds the situation confusing and sometimes seems not to know what to do next.

Much of the present difficulty may be traced to hesitancy of the government to proceed with a universal draft of manpower, although this has been declared "inevitable" if the war continues any great length of time.

Mass movement into industrial war jobs by young men otherwise subject to draft into military service, and maintenance of rather high physical requirements, have served to reduce the ranks from which draft boards can draw, and it is on this point that the imminence of drafting fathers under the age of 38 now seems to hinge.

"You've got to get men where you can," Director Hershey said yesterday. "The time is coming when the present draft maximum of 37 must be raised, or physical qualifications lowered."

President Roosevelt has also indicated the likelihood that men between the ages of 38 and 44 will shortly be required to either have essential employment or fight.

Recognition of Excellent Work

ANNOUNCEMENT that the first Army-Navy "E" award to a Mansfield industry has been earned by the Hughes-Keenan company, for excellent performance in production of war equipment, is gratifying to all Mansfielders.

The official notice said: "This award symbolizes your country's appreciation of the achievement of every man and woman in the Hughes-Keenan company," and it may be doubted if higher honor could be bestowed upon civilian workers in war-time than such public expression of appreciation of faithful service to their country.

While this award reflects chief credit on workers in the Hughes-Keenan organization it also justifies community pride in the environment and conditions which contribute to accomplishments of this kind, as well as providing inspiration for other industrial workers who may be nearing the point of being accorded similar recognition.

Don't Underestimate the Japanese

TROUBLES in fighting the Japanese have largely come from underestimating their ability. They are a small people, obsequiously polite beyond what Americans think becoming, and have a strange language and stranger ways. Some people therefore think of them as inferior. No Japanese achievement has been thought likely to compare with the corresponding American feat.

This almost fatal error might have been avoided by a glance at what the American-born children of Japanese immigrants have done in our schools and universities. In one of Seattle's high schools, one fourth of the twenty class speakers at the graduating exercises of the last ten years have been Japanese-Americans, though they constitute only one tenth of the student body. At the University of Washington the Japanese-American honor group, in proportion to numbers, is two to three times larger than the honor group of white American students. It is all the more remarkable because these children are from immigrant families of low social and economic status, not from the upper Japanese classes with many generations of education.

Sauerkraut as Health Food

LOW in point requirements, but high in favor as a health food, sauerkraut is likely to find a place on more shopping lists since rationing of canned goods has become effective.

A delver into food values comes up with information that, for 150 years, sauerkraut has kept sailors in condition and that scientists say it is rich in vitamins. Also that it is nourishing, wholesome, and contains potash, phosphorous and iron, in addition to being an intestinal disinfectant and regulator. In fact, Louis Pasteur put it at the very top as a useful and healthful food.

So, when points seem insufficient to meet all needs, why not set aside a few for sauerkraut?

More Iron Deposits Found

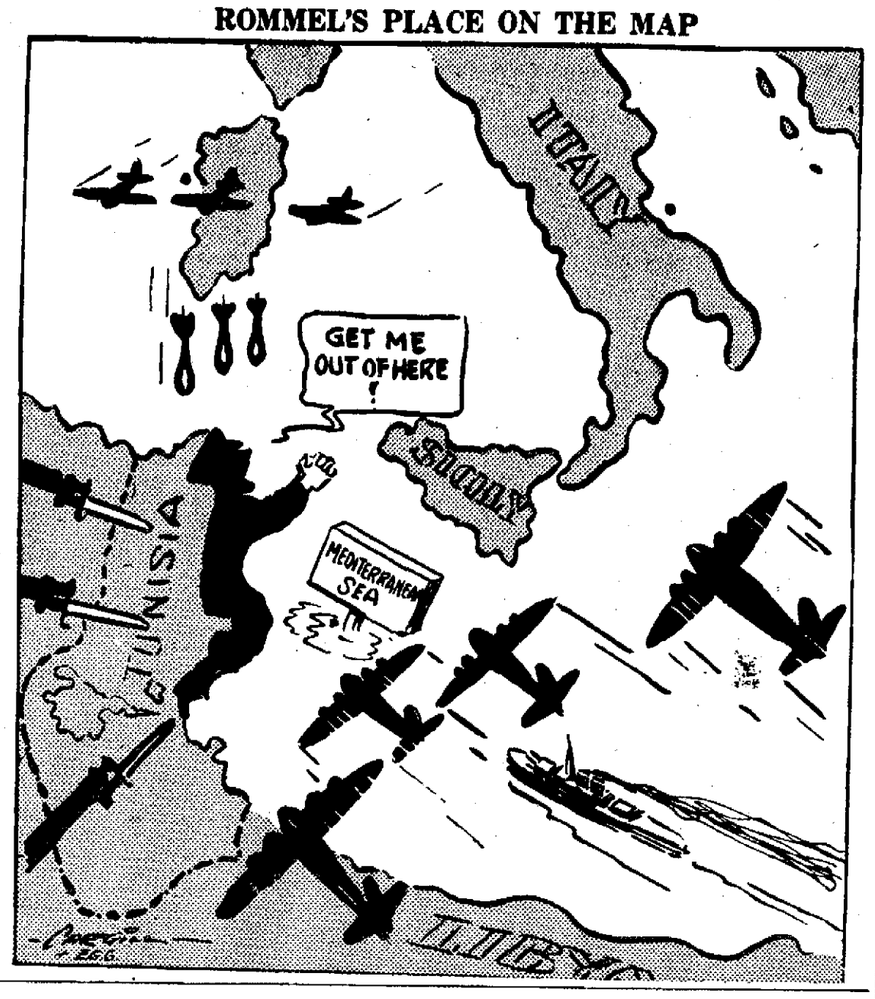
THE HEART of this war is still around the western end of Lake Superior, where the iron deposits are. The United States output this year is expected to total 92,000,000 tons of high grade iron, which will be the world's all-time record.

Obviously the most accessible deposits there are being used up quite fast. But a recent announcement told of a deposit estimated at 25,000,000,000 tons, discovered a little farther west. And there is a lot of untapped iron off to the north, across the Canadian border. How much will have to be thrown at Hitler and Hirohito before they quit is uncertain, but the supply will suffice.

Latest word about Hitler is that "he can drink or leave it alone"—which indicates that his condition may be more serious than had been previously revealed.

It is called "the middle class" because it is squeezed from both sides.

ROMMEL'S PLACE ON THE MAP



Destruction of Nazi War Plants Big Factor In Mass Air Attacks

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

IF AN ARMY of 100,000 Commandos stormed their way from the English channel to Paris and there devastated the great Renault war-works—the cost including 20,000 casualties in the ranks during weeks of bloody fighting, and a vast sum of money—the world would acclaim it as a magnificent feat.

Our American bomber command under Gen. Ira Eaker in Britain sent 133 Fying Fortresses over Paris and did the job in maybe three hours. Four bombers and seven Allied fighters were lost. And how do you appraise that?

Of course, that's a fanciful comparison. However, the Allied Air Forces are beginning to bite off great chunks of this war, with speed and small cost in lives and material. We need the land forces, but we can save hundreds of thousands of lives, weary months of battle and billions in cash by intensive development of the Allied air-arm.

Now when you hit the Renault works, you hit something. This plant, which manufactures transport vehicles, tanks and aero engines for Hitler is perhaps the biggest of its kind in Europe. It got a sorry shellacking from the Royal Air Force just over a year ago when it was employing 30,000 men and running 24 hours a day.

That raid destroyed more tanks—so I was told authoritatively in London — than had been knocked out in all the fighting in North Africa up to that time. It was a terrific loss to the Nazis, and crippled the works for a long time. Now the Yanks have tossed a shipload of monkey wrenches into the machinery again.

This was only one of many raids carried out over western Europe in the past few days, including the heavy RAF assault on the much manhandled armaments works at Essen. Nine hundred tons of bombs were dumped in among the priceless Krupps factories which are the right arm of Hitler's Frankenstein.

* * *

NATURALLY Krupps isn't wiped out or anything like it, for the works cover some 800 acres. However, only a month ago a considerable number of its central factories were destroyed by the RAF and the latest raid was terrific. The point is that while many buildings were undamaged, a great deal of the manufacturing is interlocking so that the destruction of one main building might put a large number of others out of business.

Such raids must put a fierce strain on Krupps in the matter of the vast quantity of supplies needed to keep them running.

When I was in cologne not long before the war started, a friend told me an interesting thing about the position of the Krupps works even at that time. He said he recently had been in a shooting party with one of the Krupps. Another member of the party had a new Belgian shotgun which Krupp examined with much interest and then exclaimed:

"I wish we could get steel to make such guns in our works. But it just isn't available."

So even before the war Krupps was short of materials. What must the strain be now?

THE THEORY about such devastating bombings is that if you crack up enough of prime targets, plus transport systems which are essential to move supplies, the enemy will reach a point of near impotence. No one yet has found a flaw in this argument and, in fact, it seems obvious it must be true.

However, we must remember the effect of such bombings on the German fighting machine isn't immediate, because the Nazis have supplies for a considerable time ahead. It might be several months before the losses registered on the battle front.

At the same time, the destruction of these targets is cumulative. If you wipe out a major portion of them in a short time, the resulting shortage will hit the enemy all of a sudden and that might be expected to produce a quick slump which would render him exceedingly vulnerable.

"Join or Quit" Dictum.

The AFL Machinists' Union has a contract with the Warner & Swasey plant in Cleveland. There is no closed shop clause. Warner & Swasey is so hard-pressed for manpower, to produce war goods, that some 350 school teachers, lawyers and office workers are working four-hour shifts, on top of their regular jobs, to help out.

These volunteers have been ordered by the Machinists' Union to "join or quit." Most have joined, unwillingly. Some have quit, also unwillingly. The union president concedes that he has no right to enforce membership, but says that "insistence" of fellow workers usually proves an effective persuader.

What would happen if these volunteer patriots insisted upon keeping both their jobs and their independence? A strike? You guess.—Columbus Citizen.

A Farmer's Diary — By CALVIN A. BYERS

In the Blood

MY 12-year old boy, Sam, shows more interest in the farm than any of the family—although he'll be the runt, I guess. All his brothers are bigger. But Sam's got something none of the rest ever had."

"Where is Sam?" I wondered.

Sam's father's eyes twinkled. "I guess he's at the barn. You go on out—I'll be busy here," he said.

So I went. Looked in three different stables and finally found him in a box stall feeding a fine Holstein calf. Both calf and boy looked up, the boy with shy dark eyes, the calf with a smug nose, smeared with milk and calf meal. The nose went back into the pail.

"That's a fine heifer" I said. "Is it yours—how old?"

"Three months old—next Friday morning."

"You're rather exact," I said, and smiled.

He sized me up, quietly—then, "That's because I know," he said. "Dad and I were both right here all night that night. As soon as we saw the mother was having pains, we put her in here. Every little while they came—she would toss her head and lick her sides—and lie down and get up—until finally it really happened. She seemed to want us here, too, believe it or not! There the little spotted thing lay, on the straw, as wet and as weak as anything . . . and in a half hour, mind you, it was up on its feet and I led it over to get something to eat—old Nancy licking it from head to tail and making wavy cowlicks at every stroke, as good as a woman gets at a beauty parlor." We both chuckled.

"Only old Nancy was prouder of her baby than any woman working on a customer," I suggested.

"Yes—and was I proud, too, when Dad gave the calf to me! He paid $800 for Nancy's mother and a thousand for her father. Nancy's mother—my calf's grandmother, that is—gave more'n six gallons of milk a day at 3½ per cent. Nancy went even better and kept right up to four.'

"And you think yours will be still better? Why?"

"It might run in the family to do better. A son oughta do better'n his dad, or he ain't as good, because he has more chance to learn now than his dad ever had. . . . Dad says that often. Another thing. Dad thinks there's more'n bein' born right to making more butter fat from a cow. He thinks the feed's got a mighty lot to do with it. He's 'deduxed' that idea from his experience."

"And you're twelve—is that right?"

"Nearly 13 . . . and someday I want to have the best dairy herd in the state. I'm going to ag school — to get started right. Farming oughta be fun, I think. It's so real, you know."

Washington Merry-Go-Round — By DREW PEARSON

Some Rockefeller Committeemen Object to Spanish Appeasement

WASHINGTON—Some of the members of the Rockefeller office are chafing at the Spanish appeasement policy of the state department. They would like to move against the Fascist activities of certain Spanish elements in Latin-America, but every time the subject is broached at the inter-departmental conferences, the state department vetoes the proposal.

Both the Rockefeller office and the state department have been told the inside story of what these Spanish elements are doing below the Rio Grande, and that Spanish legations and embassies have taken over the anti-United Nations propaganda formerly done by the Axis diplomats before they were kicked out.

Continuation of these activities in part nullifies the effect of breaking relations with the Axis by Latin-American countries—the policy which the state department has been pushing ever since the Rio conference more than a year ago.

Not all of the Rockefeller office are agreed on policy, some being ultra-appeasement minded. But others, though wanting to stop the Spanish activities, are afraid of the state department.

Labor Protecting Farmer.

CIO PRESIDENT Phil Murray raised some strenuous objections to government price statistics at a recent conference in the Office of Price Stabilizer James Byrnes, attended by cabinet members and farm and labor leaders.

Murray contended that the cost of the nation's "Food Basket" had risen a great deal more than official price indices showed — far more, he stated, than corresponding increases in wages.

"I don't know what these price statistics are based on," the CIO leader asserted, "but they don't accurately reflect the higher living cost which the average worker must pay these days."

Murray was aiming his shots at Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, who was present and whose Bureau of Labor Statistics compiles data not only on wages but on living costs. Looking daggers at the labor leader, Mrs. Perkins shot back:

"My department is responsible for those figures. What's wrong with them?"

"They favor the farmer," snapped Murray.

At this juncture the conference was interrupted by a hearty laugh from Farm Bureau President Ed O'Neal, whose genial sense of humor is admired both by his anti-inflation foes in the administration and by his friends in the congressional farm bloc.

"Oh, I wish some of my farmer friends could listen to this," chortled O'Neal. "Just imagine the labor department protecting the farmer against labor. That's one for the book."

Mrs. Perkins and Phil Murray did not appear to be amused by the farm leader's dig, but Byrnes, together with Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard, couldn't conceal their mirth.

He Defeated Ruml.

THE MAN who really turned the tide of congressional debate against the Ruml plan was Oklahoma's hard-hitting Congressman Wesley Disney, cousin of Hollywood's Walt Disney.

Disney used to be a prosecuting attorney, has tried over 100 murder cases. Using hammer-and-fist prosecution tactics, Disney let loose with a speech which shattered the opposition. He argued:

(1) Tax forgiveness would be the entering wedge for repudiation of debt. The next step after forgiving taxes, Disney warned was to repudiate government bonds, then private debts, then mortages, next insurance obligations. This argument made an impression.

(2) Disney gave a vivid word picture of Dr. Beardsley Ruml, Macy's department store treasurer, and chairman of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, who originated the Ruml plan.

Those who have seen Ruml in Washington, where he has been working on behalf of tax-forgiveness, are familiar with his love of colorful dress. When he comes to Washington one of the first things he does is put on his pink corduroy pants, and his Russian orchid jacket.

But to most of congress, Ruml was a distant myth. So Congressman Disney gave a side-splitting description of the frank, eccentric, "Big Breeze" Ruml. Quoting Collier's, Disney said:

"He laughs his big bass laugh at quips about his brilliant plumage and casually mentions the fact that in the country he wears pastels — and orchid corduroy jacket and dove-pink corduroy trousers."

"Imagine," continued Disney, "trying to get a farmer to vote for you after you've voted for the tax plan devised by a man like that?"

Note: Ruml, an extremely likable person, was even franker than Disney reported. Collier's also quoted him as saying: "If you ever hear of me dropping dead on a tennis court, you'll know it was because I was crossing it on my way to a Scotch and soda."

Will History Repeat?

HISTORY does not always repeat itself, and our military leaders undoubtedly are smarter in this war. However, the inside history of the first World war shows that in the fall of 1918 they were woefully ignorant as to how long the war would last.

It will be recalled that on Sept. 26, 1918, Bulgaria surrendered. On Oct. 6, Turkey proposed peace. Meanwhile Austria-Hungary had sent out peace feelers, and on Sept. 29 the German supreme command asked the kaiser to propose peace. When this was delayed Hindenburg on Oct. 2 sent an urgent demand which read as follows:

"The supreme command insists on its demand of Sunday 29th September that a peace offer to our enemies be issued at once."

Nevertheless, despite all this, Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig, when asked by the British cabinet for his views on Germany's strength and the prospect for peace, reported on Oct. 19 that the war would last into the next year, or 1919.

Marshal Haig completely failed to evaluate the political factors of Bulgaria's, Austria's and Turkey's surrender.

Yet Hindenburg nearly one month before had urgently and repeatedly demanded peace overtures. And less than a month after Haig's report, Germany abjectly surrendered.

Meeting Up With "The House of Jackson"; Airmen Have "Language All Their Own."

FORWARD AIRDROME IN NORTH AFRICA—Once more I'm with the House of Jackson—the bomber crew I wrote about in England and again elsewhere in Africa. We follow each other around so much our reunions are getting to be commonplace.

They were out on a mission when I arrived at their remote airdrome. So I went out to their plane's parking place, and was waiting when they came back.

The first man to drop out of the plane was Lieut. Malcolm Andresen, of Hixton, Wis., the navigator. We are good friends, and I hadn't seen him for weeks, but he just grinned and said "Hi, Ernie," and didn't even shake hands, as though I'd been there all the time.

The House of Jackson is still perking, but the inevitable perils and shiftings of war are starting to whittle her down. Her skipper was Capt. Jack Taylor, of Wollaston, Mass. Now he has been promoted to ground work in an operations job, and takes the faithful old plane on its mission only once in a while.

He hates office work: just isn't the type. But when I asked him if he didn't chafe at being on the ground so much he said, "Hell no, if I never go on another mission it'll suit me all right." But later I noticed he was begging the squadron leader to let him go on one.

* * *

THE bombardier is temporarily out of the crew too. He got a piece of flak in his left hand, and now goes around proudly with his arm in a sling. He is Lieut. Joe Wolff, of Omaha.

He'll be flying again in a few days, but the boys kid him about maybe he'll get a ticket home, now he's wounded. Joe laughs too, but he wishes they weren't just kidding.

There is no laughter about the ball-turret runner. For he is dead. He is the one who loved his ball-turret so much he even wanted to be in it while the plane took off; loved it so much he wouldn't let anybody else get inside it.

His death was a brave one. When the Germans came over our airdrome one night this gunner jumped from the trench, where he was safe, and dashed to the nearest Fortress and began shooting at the enemy planes from the upper turrent. A bomb landed nearby, and a small fragment tore through the side of the plane and went through his heart.

I was on the field that night, and the rest of the crew were asking their officers if they could take up a collection and send his body home. It is impossible, but they will mark his grave well, and maybe after the war it can be returned.

That night Lt. Andreson asked me if I could say something in the column about how wonderful the ball-turret gunner had been, and how he had died, so his folks could read it. But I had to tell him it was impossible, because I can't give his name.

There is a censorship rule which forbids us mentioning the name of a casualty until after his family has been notified by the war department. The rule is good, I think, but there's no way for us over here ever to know when the war department has sent its telegram. Consequently the rule totally forbids us ever mentioning casualties at all.

So all I can do is tell the little incident, and some day the other members of the crew will write to this brave gunner's family and tell them how he died.

(Editor's Note: The gunner was Sergt. John D. Wadkins, of Coolidge, Ariz. Ernie Pyle gave his name in a confidential postscript to this dispatch, for us if the war department confirmed that the next of kin had been notified. This the department has done.)

* * *

THE Air Forces have a language all their own. One old Air Force expression has increased in popularity over here until now it substitutes for about 50 per cent of ordinary verbs. The expression is "sweating out."

You "sweat out" a mission, or you "sweat out" the weather, or you "sweat out" a promotion. It means you wait, or you fight, or you do anything hard that takes some time.

Another much used expression is "rugged." When you've been living in mud, that was "rugged." When the flak over Bizerte has been especially bad, that was a "rugged" trip. Anything extraordinarily tough is "rugged."

* * *

IN THE VILLAGE near our airdrome there is a terribly crippled Arab kid, about 10 or 12 years old, I'd judge. He can't walk, and crawls on his stomach all over town through the dirt and filth.

And what have our soldiers done? Why, they've taken the wheels off a battery-carrier at the airdrome, and made a little wheeled platform for this kid to lie on, so he can roll along the streets instead of crawl.

One Man's Opinion

—By WALTER KIERNAN

ONE of the hidden mysteries of life is: Why is it that a man who can't repair a ten-cent coat hanger will try grinding the valves of a two thousand dollar automobile?

* * *

A few weeks ago our treasury experts had a wonderful opportunity to set up a real streamlined 1943 tax plan for the nation . . . the people were begging for it.

* * *

So what happened? They shot Ruml. That's all brother . . . No treasury plan, no flowers.

* * *

Now the scene shifts and what do we find? The bright boys of the treasury preparing a plan to stabilize the world's finances! The world . . . No less!

* * *

There are the boys who had no thoughts on repairing the coat hanger, monkeying around with the valves of the limousine.

* * *

Now we don't say that the treasury is incapable of operating on a world scale but we do say that there is a little matter of domestic financing rusting away for the want of minor repairs and what's the matter with tackling that first?

* * *

We'd have more confidence in the workman if we knew his work.

AIR GUERRILLAS TEACH 'JERRY' NOT TO TANGLE

Here's Inside Story of P40 Fliers Who Bagged 34 Nazi Planes In Eight Days.

(The spectacular feat of one group of P-40 fliers in knocking down 34 Nazi planes in eight days is the envy of every other Yank squadron in Tunisia. Here is the story behind their performance as written by Capt. Jay Vessels, public relations officer who formerly was an Associated Press and Minneapolis newspaperman.)

By JAY VESSELS

AN AMERICAN AIRBASE IN TUNISIA, April 3—(Delayed)—(AP)—The combat boys on the North African front are beginning to learn firsthand—and certainly so are the Heinies—what the French meant back in the earlier days of the Tunisian battle when they tagged the P40's "the guerrilla fighters."

They are beginning to know because the P40 lads are stamping their flaming brand into Jerry's groaning carcass with a ferocity that unswervingly sticks to the rugged tradition established by their former leader, the fiery Lieut. Colonel Phillip G. Cochran, 32, of Erie, Pa.

A big part of the fighter show on the sector that became so hot when Rommel's Africa corps made its late March bid formerly was run by Cochran. He headlined the show and his daring performances made him a legend with the French because they were the ground force mainstay and were amply qualified to know the results that the dynamic little fighter chieftan consistently obtained. Cochran, then a major, so inspired his men that deeds of valor were commonplace.

Now he has moved on to other work but the precedent he set is being energetically followed by his old command.

Actually it is a new type of war the old Cochran outfit is fighting but the results are primarily the same. In the old guerrilla days the P40 boys operated on a hit and run basis. They functioned in small units. They weren't looking for combat with Jerry. They could not risk that chance with the big job they had to do and what they had to do it with.

They hedgehopped through the area smashing troop movements, supply dumps, vehicular traffic and gun concentrations. They shot up anything that moved and some things that didn't.

Their shooting aim wasn't bad, either, when it came to combat, and occasionally when the handicap was not too great they tangled with Jerry and gained great respect therefrom.

Now the old Cochran punch in a new setting has become the sensation of the Tunisian front. Superior flying plus deadly surprise tactics give them the winning margin. The present outfit is headed by Colonel William W. Momyer, 28, of Seattle, who led a recent splurge of 34 Nazi planes downed in five days by shooting down five of the planes himself. His bag of four Stukas in a single engagement is an aerial classic in itself.

Another Cochran headman helping pace the current assault is Major Levi R. Chase, 25, of Cortland, N. Y., whom Cochran tabbed a "one man wave of destruction."

As or April 1, Colonel Momyer and Major Chase are tied for top honors with eight Nazis each.

Other members of the old outfit now shining with new luster include Lieut. James W. Gray, 23, of Summerfield, La., a crossroads storekeeper, and Lieut. Thomas A. Thomas, jr., of Ada, Okla., a baby faced chap who vainly grew heavy whiskers to look the part of a guerrilla fighter.

Recently Jerry tangled with the outfit over the target. Two Nazis were downed on their own airport but Jerry didn't learn. He followed the P40 lads clear back to their home base and there he did learn with regret, for the score that day was six dead Nazi pilots and everybody present and accounted for with the P40's.

Next time the old guerrilla gang got seven, then eight and finally smashed ten German planes in a single day.

STILL SEARCH FOR 'DEAD' MAN

London Prison Farm Wants Him Back To Serve Rest of His Sentence.

LONDON, O. — London prison farm officials wonder whether an escaped convict, declared legally dead by Defiance county courts in order to legalize the settlement of his estate, can be legally returned to the farm to complete his full obligation to the state of Ohio.

The man, John Long, or John Long Milleman, as he was known under the name of his foster parents, walked away from the London institution 12 years ago after serving 18 months on a charge of abandoning his wife and child.

Two years ago Defiance county officials conducted an intensive search for him in order to settle two estates from which he was to receive inheritances. His whereabouts not learned, Milleman was declared legally dead.

Prison officials say that while Milleman may be legally dead in Defiance county he still has one year, four months and seven days to serve of his sentence, if he is alive and if he ever is apprehended. He still is listed as a fugitive and, under rules of the state welfare department, he cannot be listed as dead until fingerprint proof is recorded or he is otherwise accounted for.

Amazing results in building STURDY BODIES!

1—Promote the flow of vital digestive juices in the stomach

2—Energize your body with RICH, RED BLOOD!

YOUNG people, especially those of grammar and high school age, are prone to be deficient in stomach digestive juices and red-blood.

A growing person who is operating on a 65 to 70% healthy blood volume or a stomach digestive capacity of only 50 to 60% normal is severely handicapped.

In such cases Nature needs extra help. Organic troubles or focal infection, if they exist, must be corrected. Tissue foods must be digested and rich, red-blood must be present to build sturdy bodies.

S.S.S. Tonic is especially designed to build-up blood strength when deficient . . . and to promote those stomach juices which digest the food so the body can make proper use of it in tissue building and repair.

These two important results enable the body to make use of the food as Nature intended. Thus you may gain a keen appetite . . . firm flesh . . . body energy . . . mental alertness!

Build Sturdy Health so that the Doctors may better serve our Fighting Forces

Thousands and thousands of users have testified to the benefits S.S.S. Tonic has brought to them and scientific research shows that it gets results—that's why so many say "S.S.S. Tonic builds sturdy health—makes you feel like yourself again." At drugstores in 10 and 20 oz. sizes. ©S.S.S.Co.
